351 BC

Sergei and Tatyana's wedding. Strahd makes pact with Death, becoming a vampire. Between Strahd and assassins sent by Leo Dilisnya, all the guests are killed. The Demiplane of Dread forms as Barovia becomes an island domain. [Between DoD pg. 16, RoT, I,S, FtS, and VotM these events are pretty well documented. However, I,S introduces Dilisnya's assassins, which conflicts with what we had read elsewhere, including FtS, where PCs encounter the scene for themselves. Although I,S can easily be discounted as Strahd's propaganda, I actually quite like the idea of giving the Dilisnyas a long history of treachery and murder. My explanation; the assassins were there, provoking Strahd's wrath (by shooting him with crossbows), but when Strahd retaliated he didn't bother to distinguish between assassin and innocent guest.]

352 BC

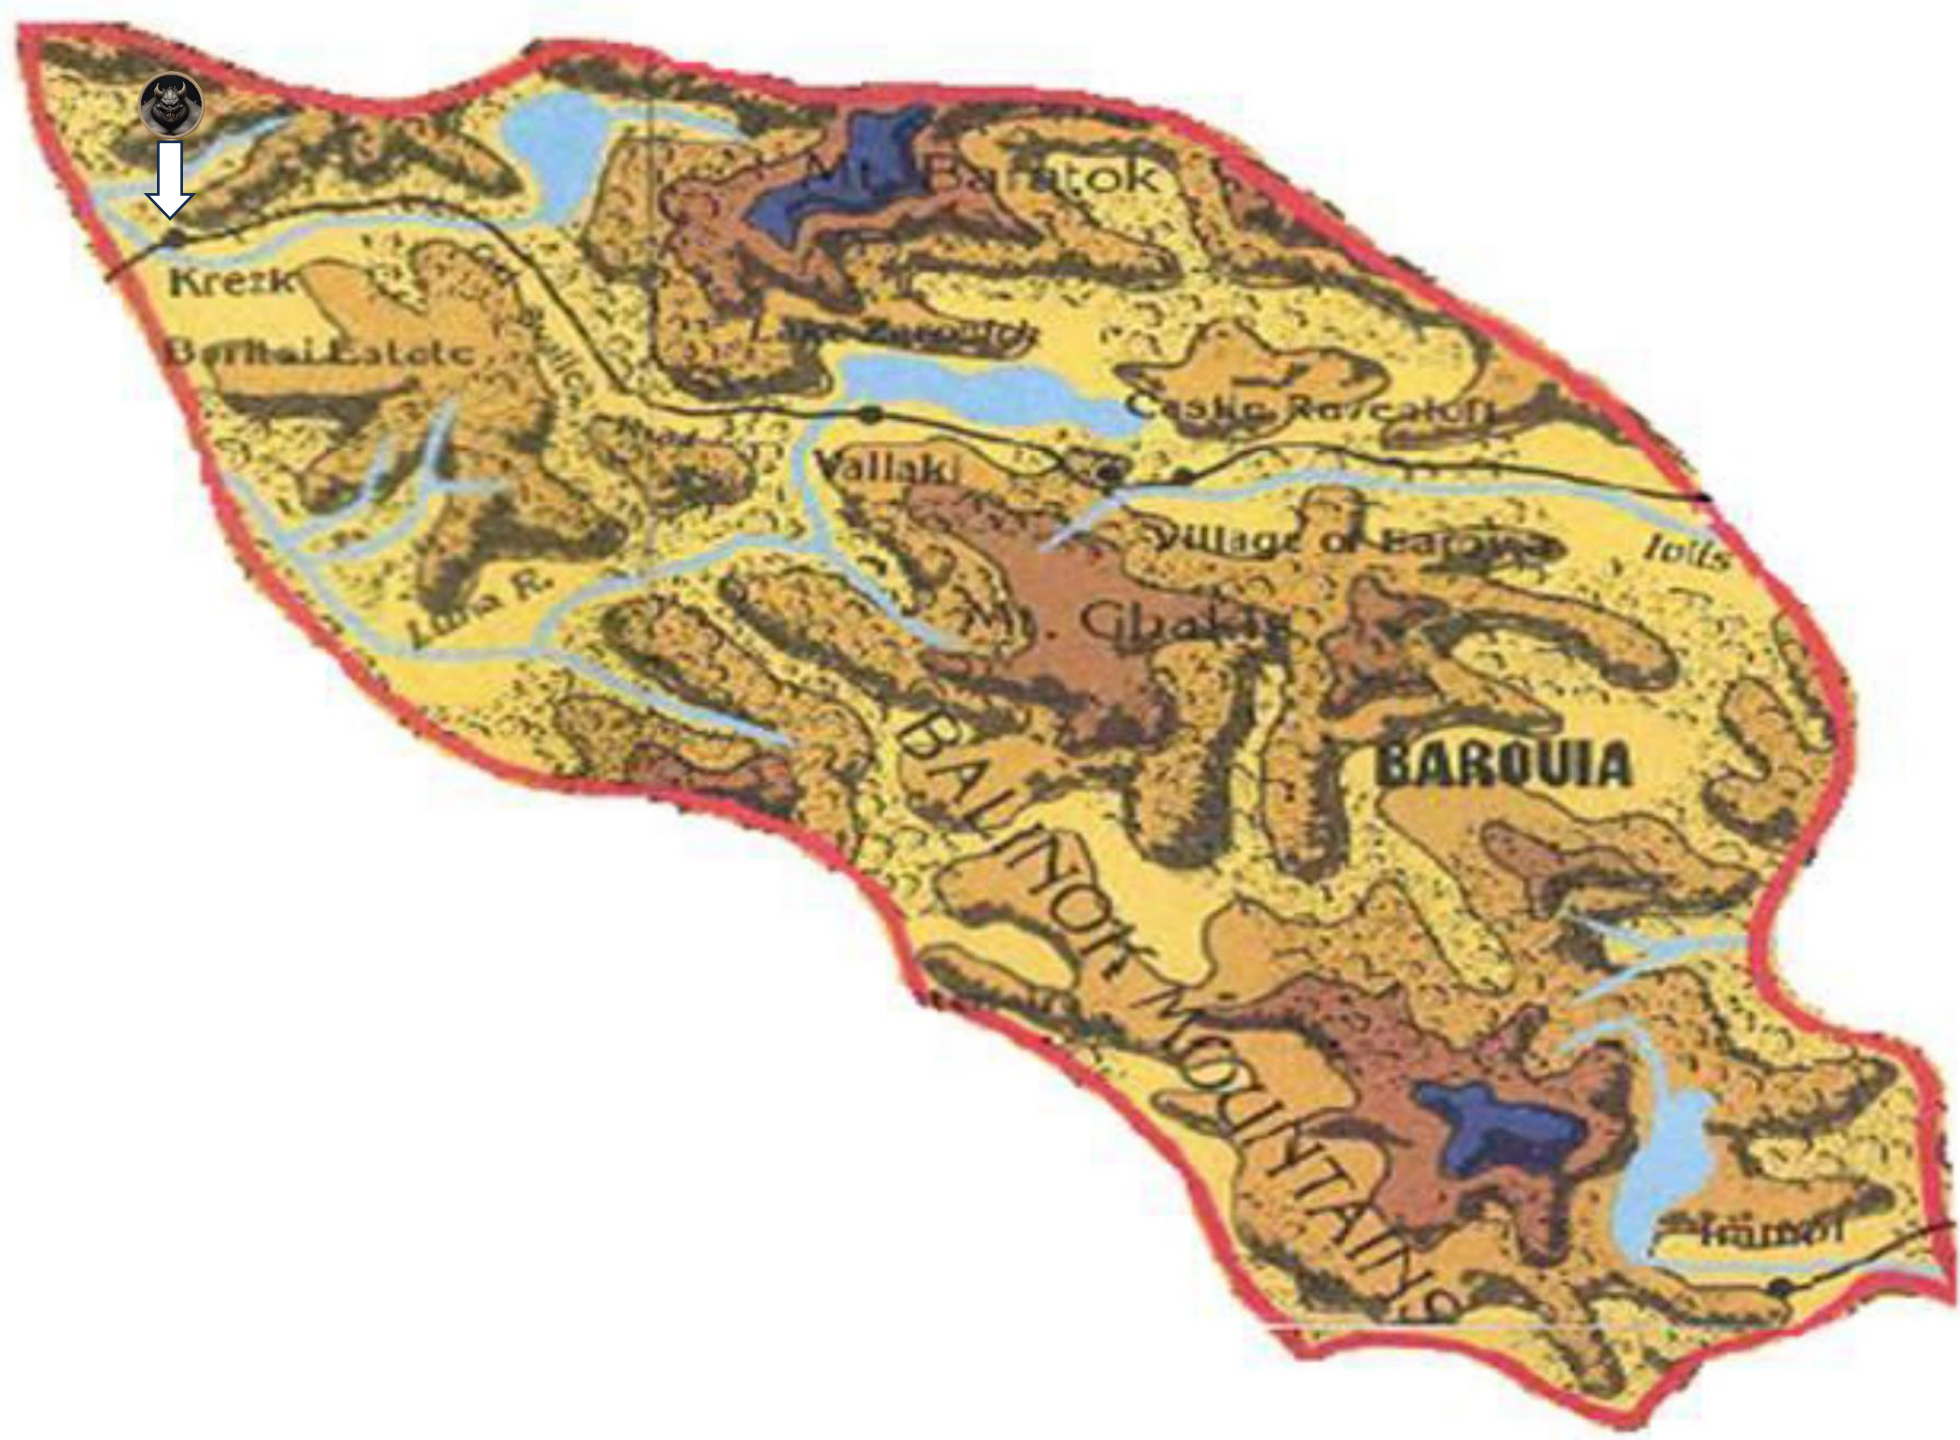

Strahd asserts his authority as Lord of Barovia, and hunts down most of Leo Dilisnya's men. In June, Dagmar Olavnya, Burgomeister of Immol, visits Castle Ravenloft. She is the last woman to willingly enter the castle for over a century. [DoD pg.. 16, I,S pg.. 203]

357 BC

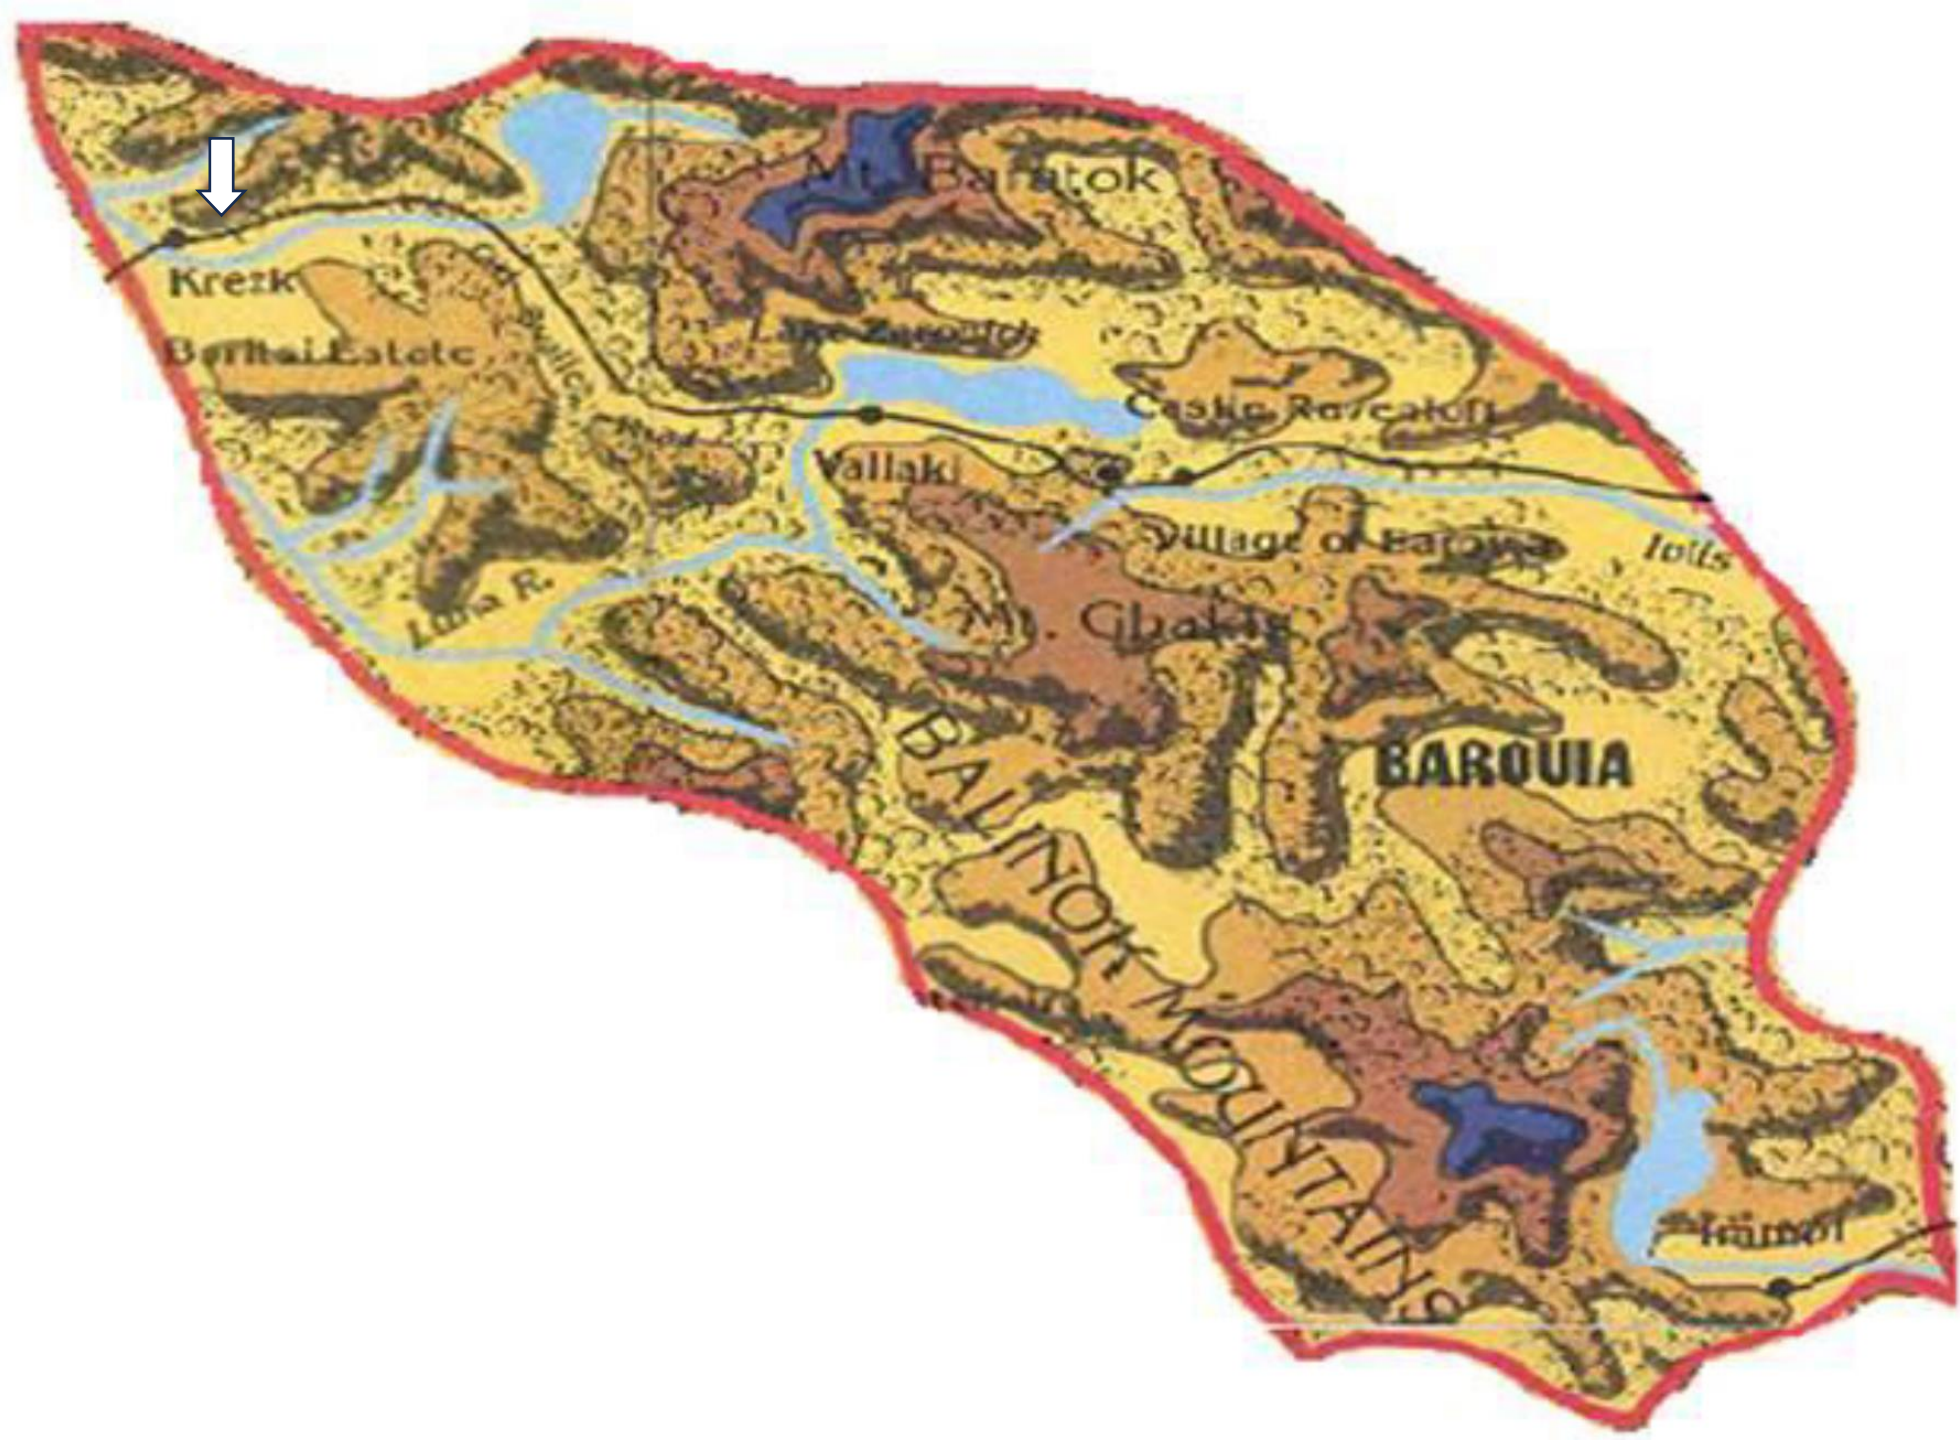

The fiend Drigor becomes trapped in Barovia; it attaches itself to the Madrigore family and starts writing The Madrigorian. [VRGtF pg.. 5: The Madrigorian had been written “over the course of almost four hundred years.”]

372 BC

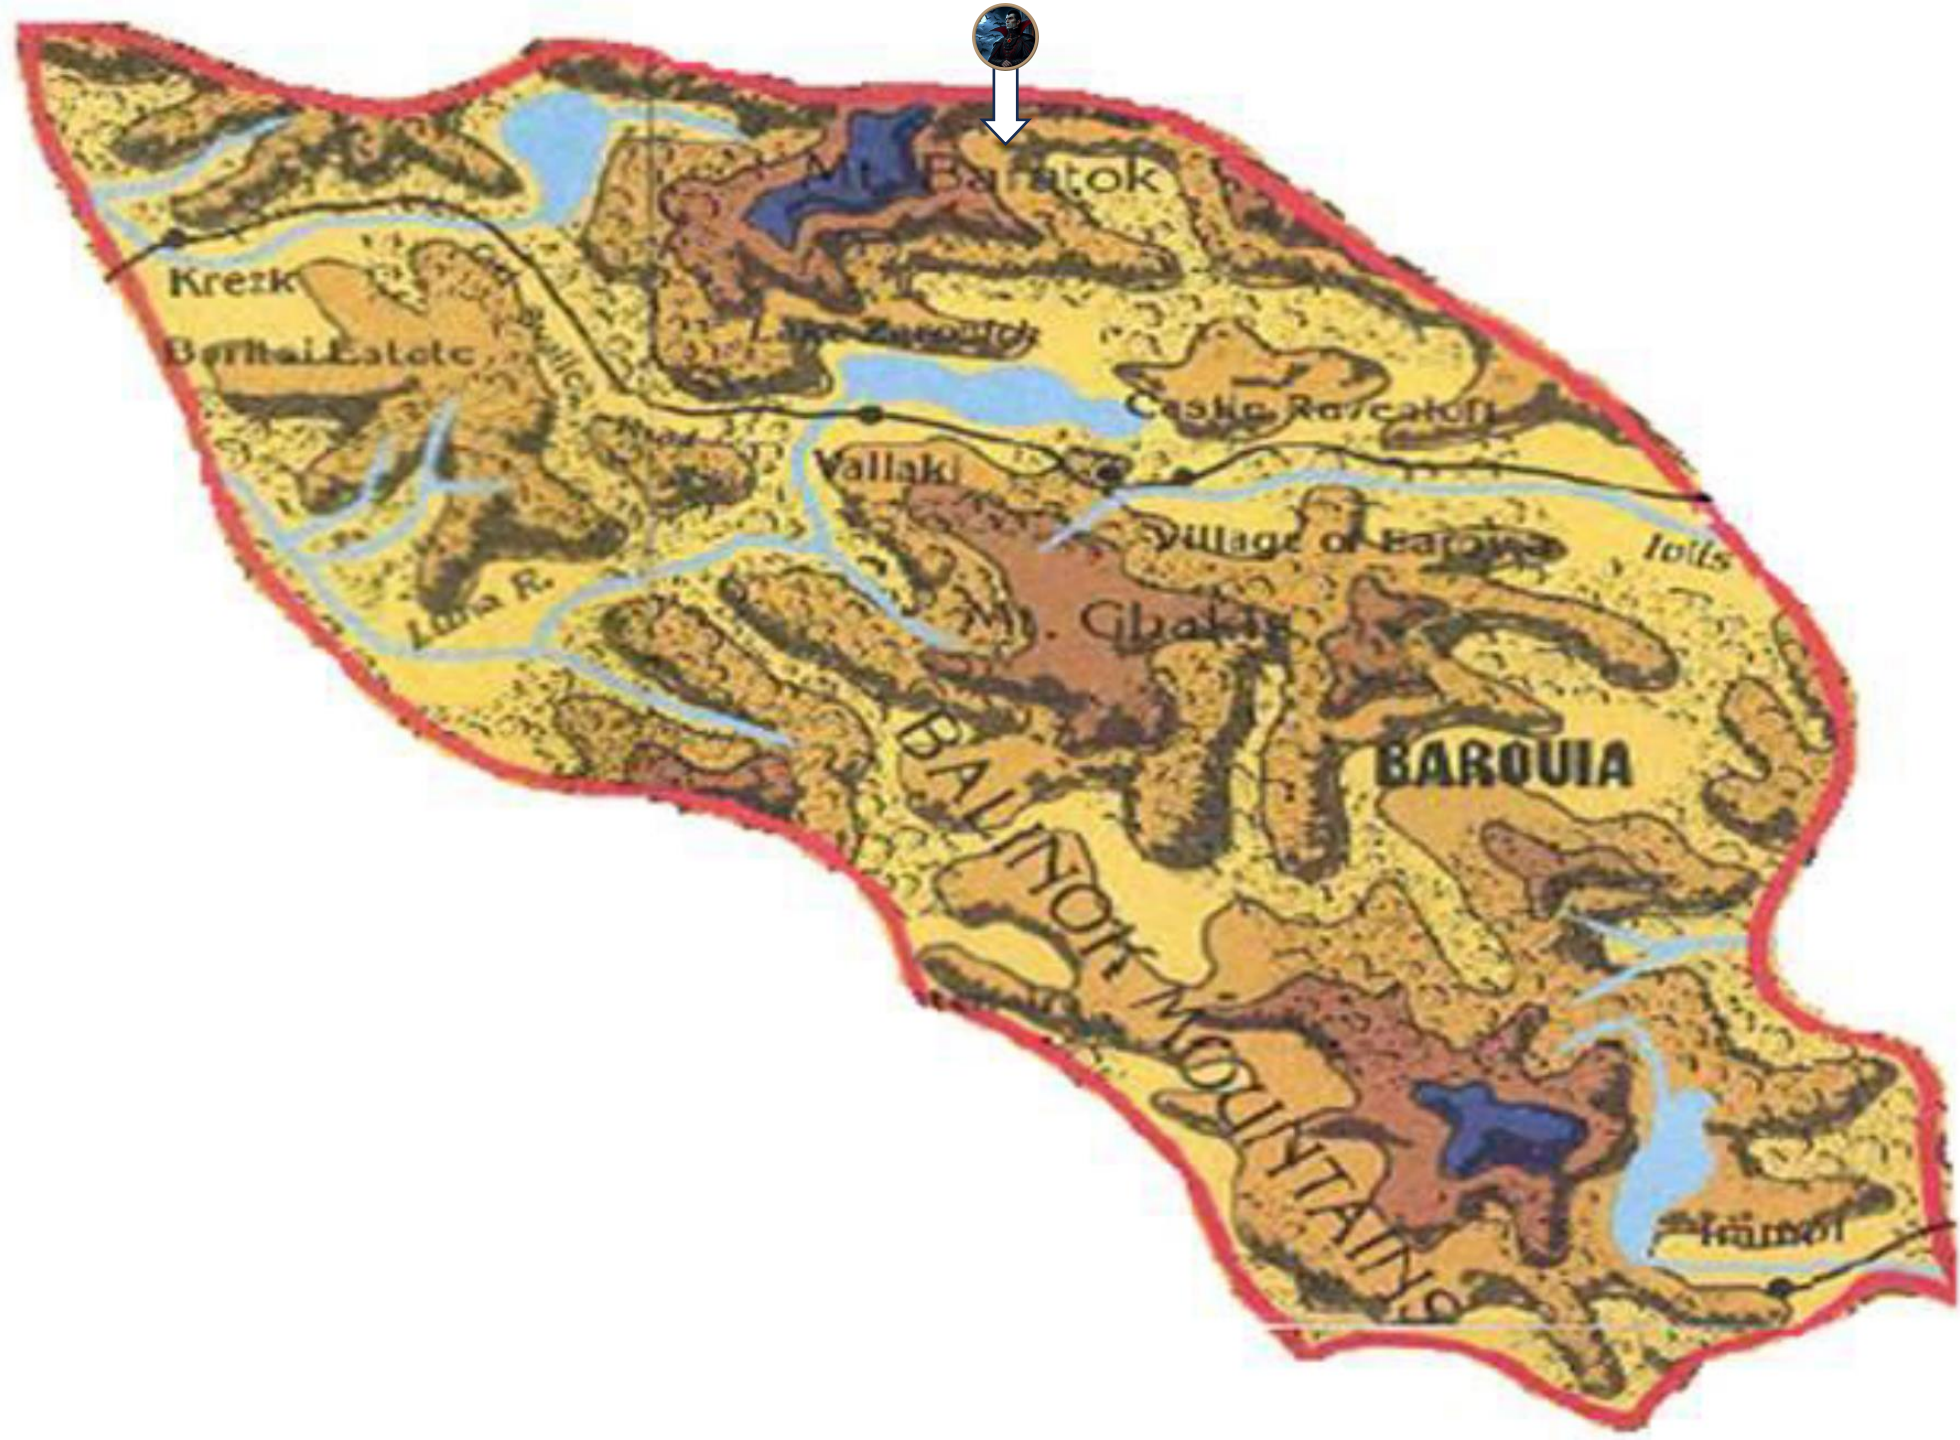

Boyar Victor Wachter dies in the search for Leo Dilisnya. Victor's daughter Lovina continues his mission after his death

398 BC

Strahd hunts down and punishes the traitor, Leo Dilisnya; learns of the monastery on Mt. Baratok. (This same monastery may be the one later used by the Guardians and which ends up in Markovia.)
[DoD pg.. 16; I,S]

399 BC

1. “Marina” is found walking by the Luna River near the tiny village of Berez, with no idea who she is or where she came from. She is taken in by Lazlo Ulrich, the Burgomeister.
(Summer) [I,S 273]

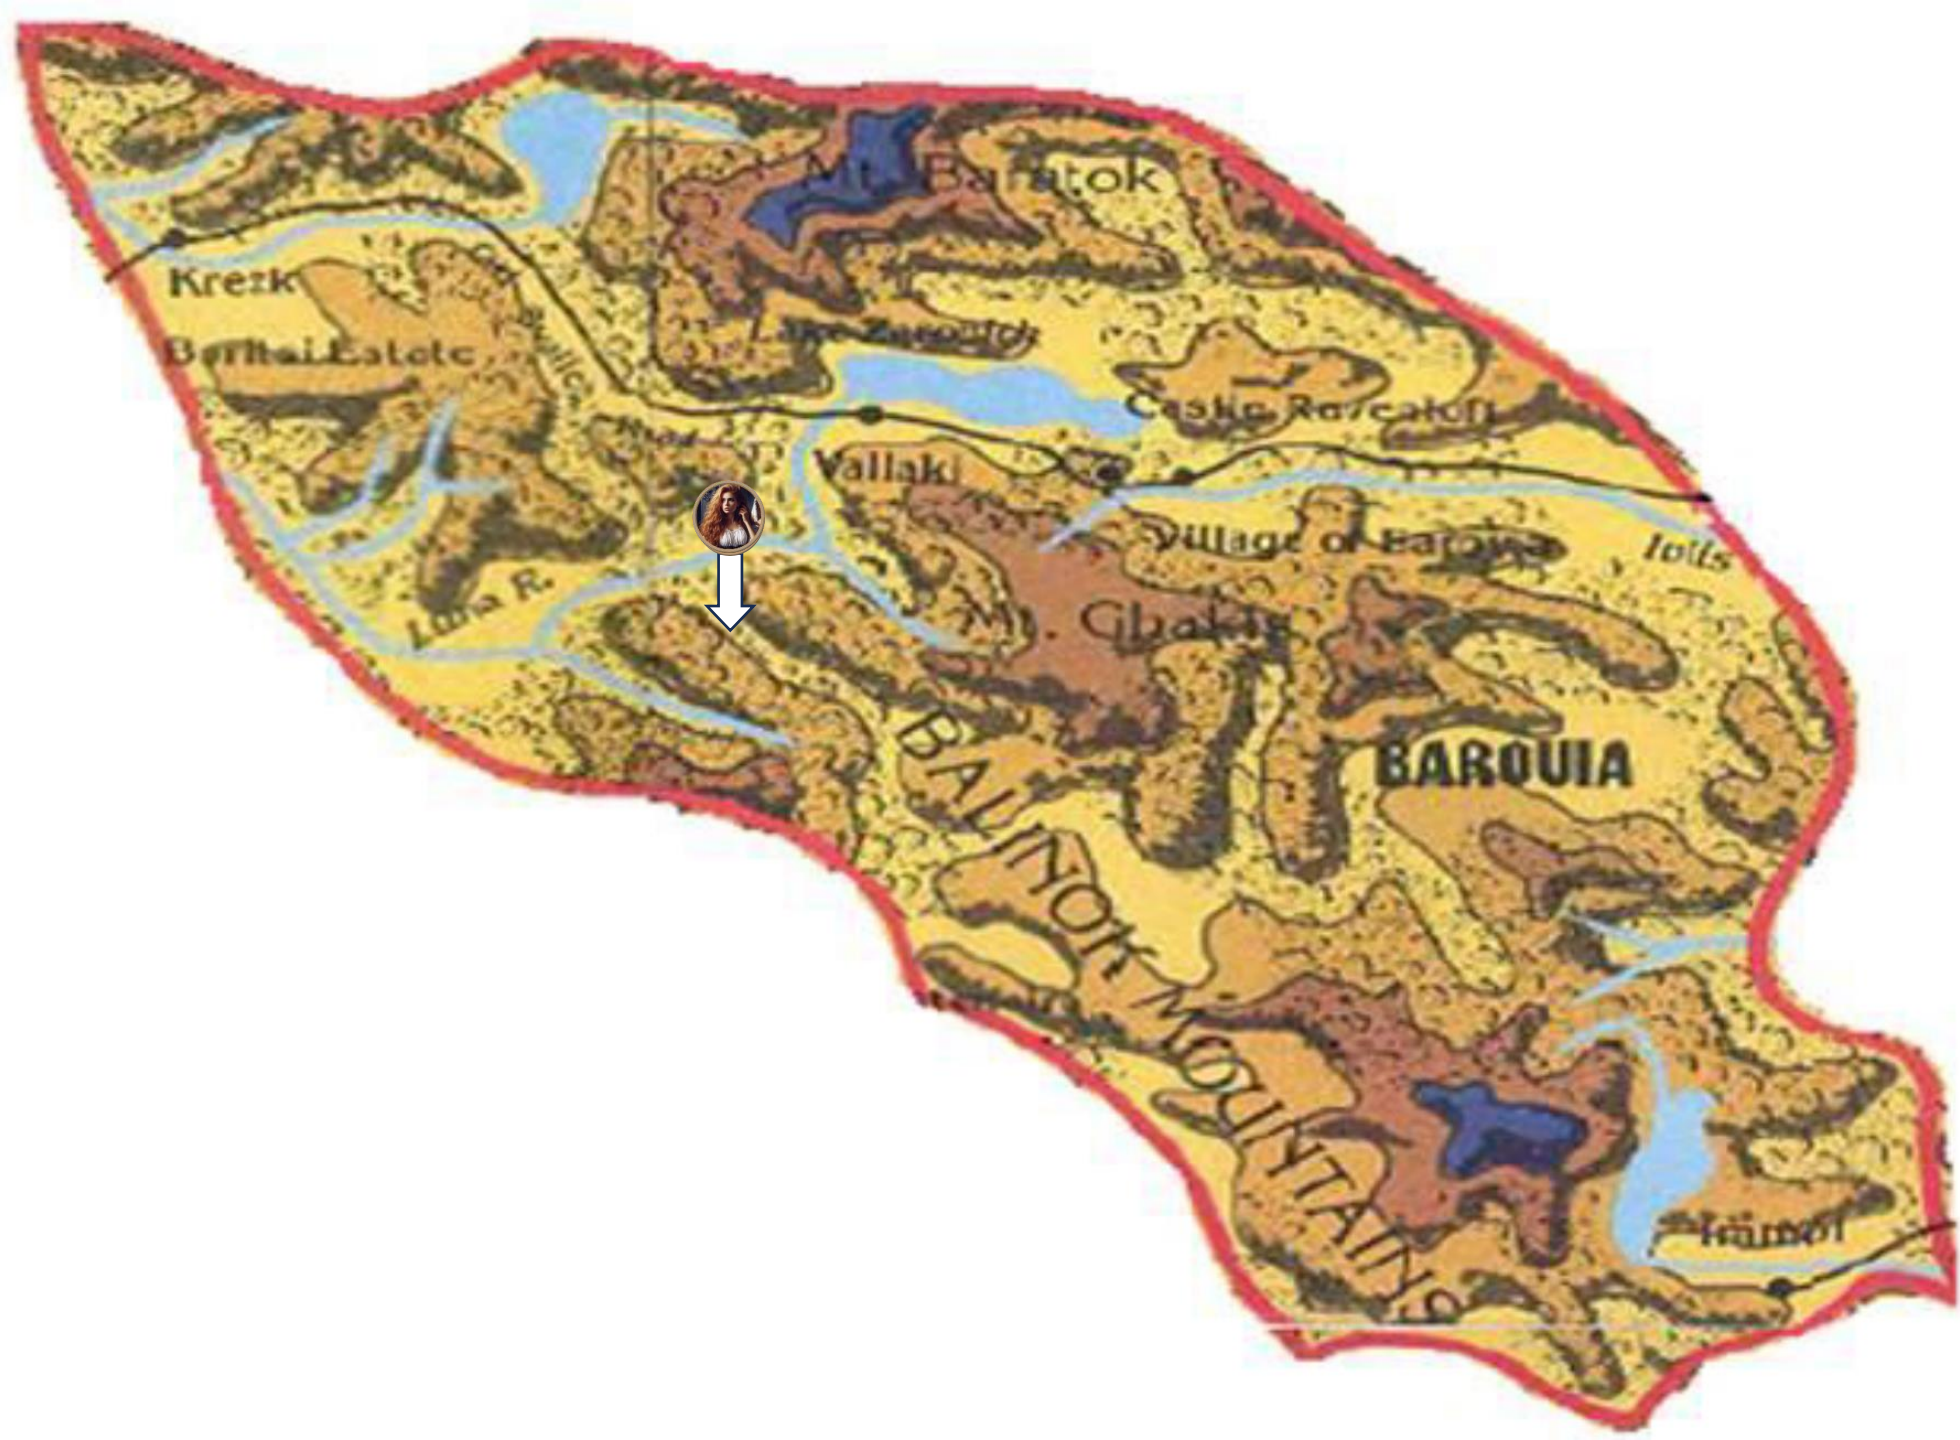

2. Jezra Wagner born to boyars in Barovia.
[MCAI&II pp. 113]

400 BC

Strahd first discovers Tatyana returned as “Marina Ulrich,” but she is killed. (Oct.)
[DoD pg.. 16; VotM
pg.. 266; I,S pp. 267.]

426 BC

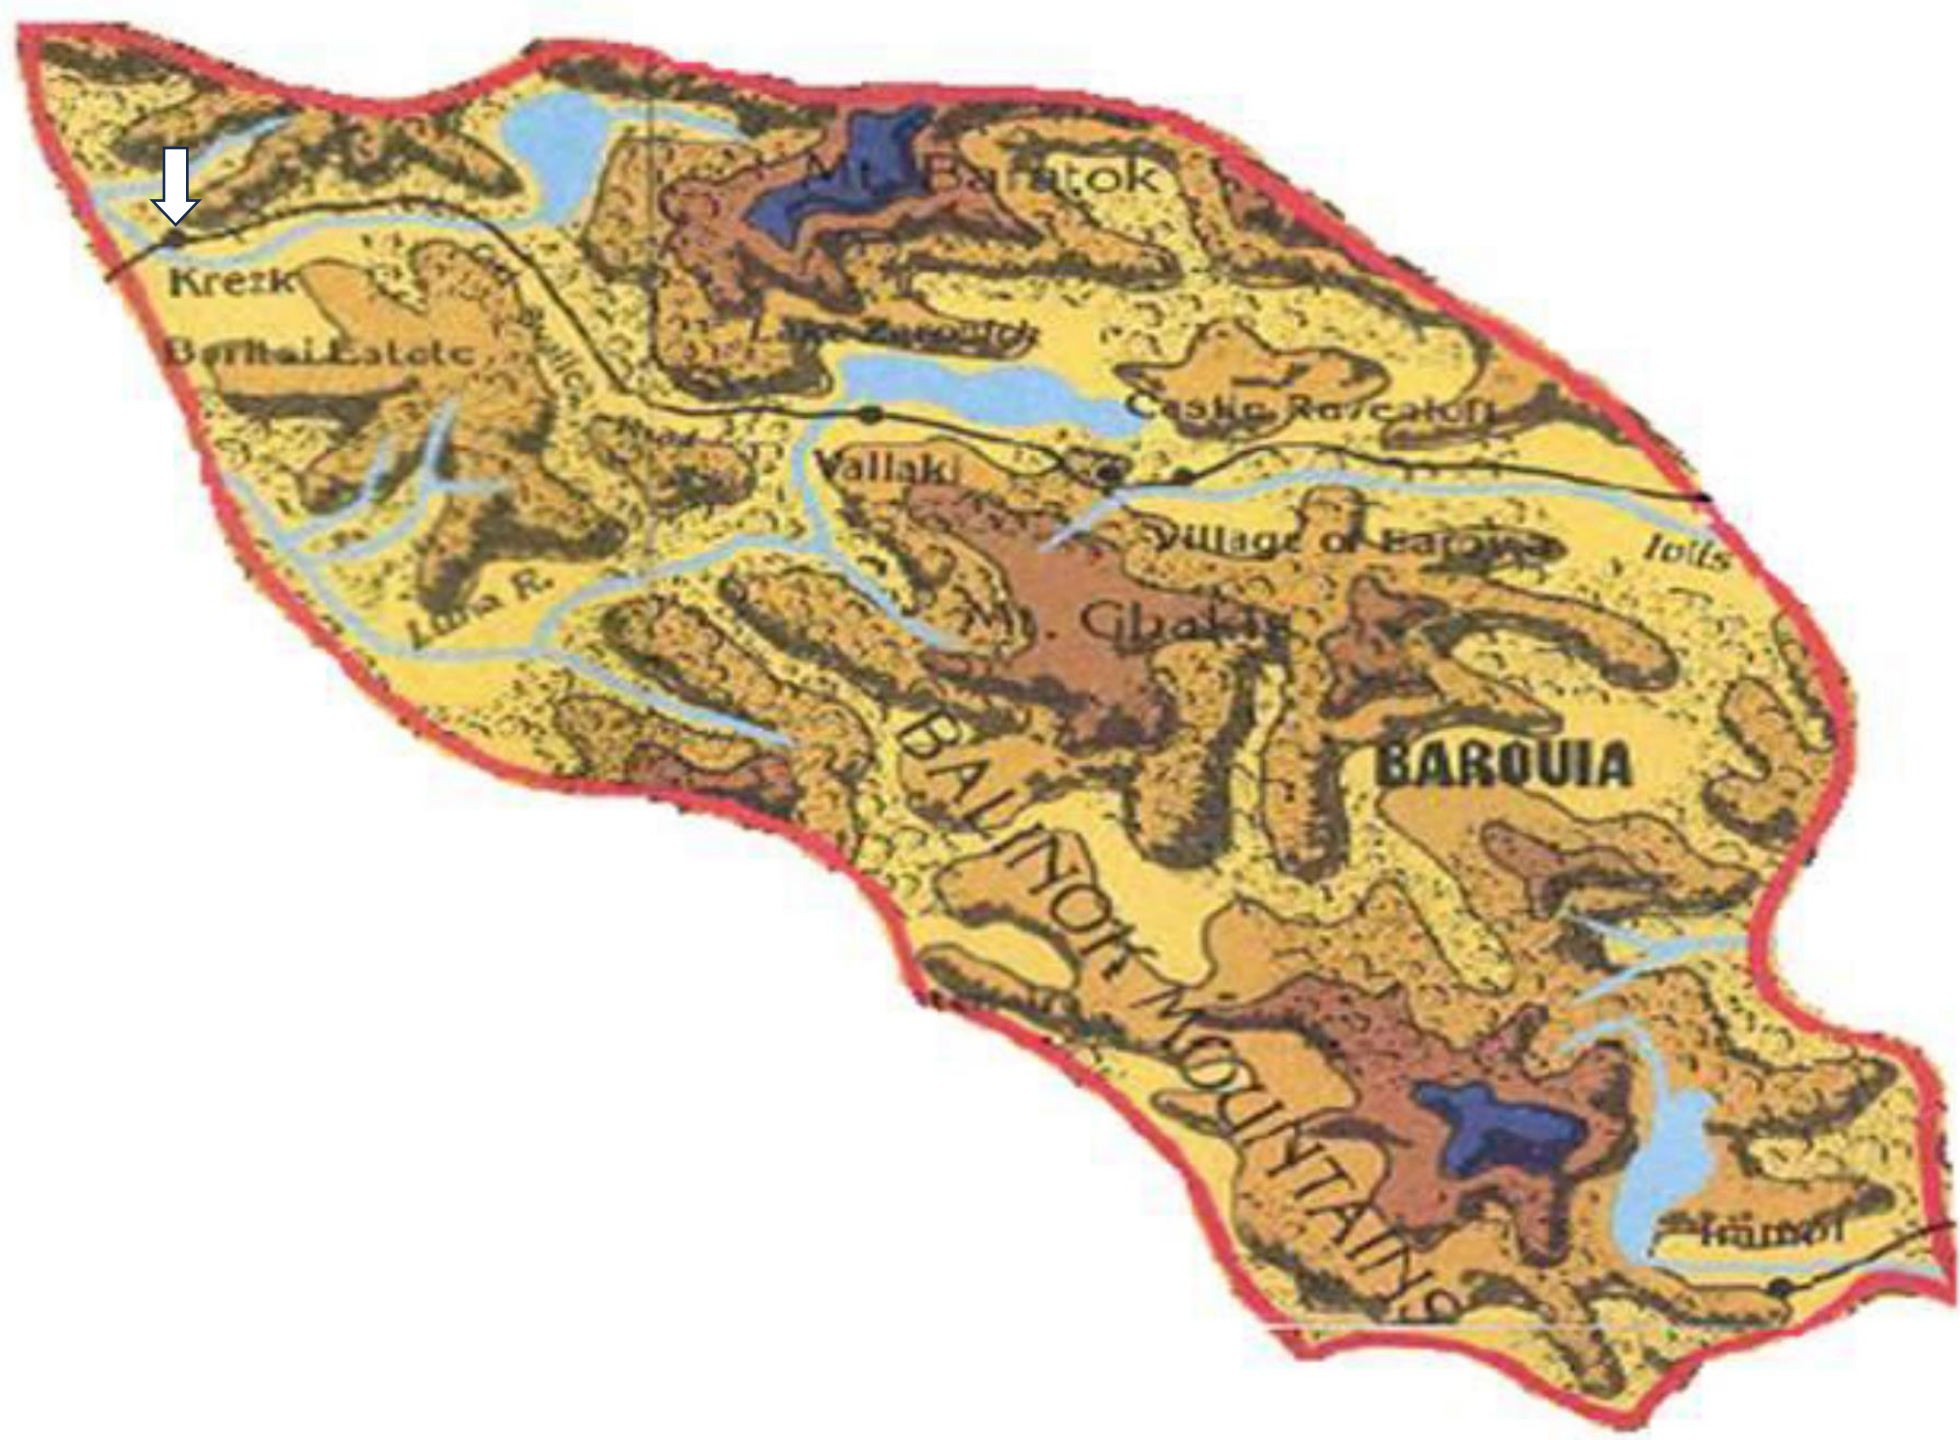

Jezra Wagner is entombed on Mt. Baratok by an avalanche, and becomes a spectre. The Vistani eventually turn her tale into a song called Regina d'Ghiaccio or The Ice Queen. (Dec.)
[MCAI&II pp. 113-4]

436 BC

Demius the Bard writes *The Damneable Tragedie of Counte Vonn
Zarovych*. [BoSo:
Art in the Land]

445 BC

1. According to the version of Strahd's diary read by Van Richten in 736, Tatyana returns to Strahd a second time as "Alina," but she dies of fever. However, this contradicts the diary read by Jander Sunstar at the end of this century. According to Strahd, he tries to commit suicide in his grief, but is prevented from doing so by the Mists. [I,SI pp. 15-22. See "475: Tatyana returns"]

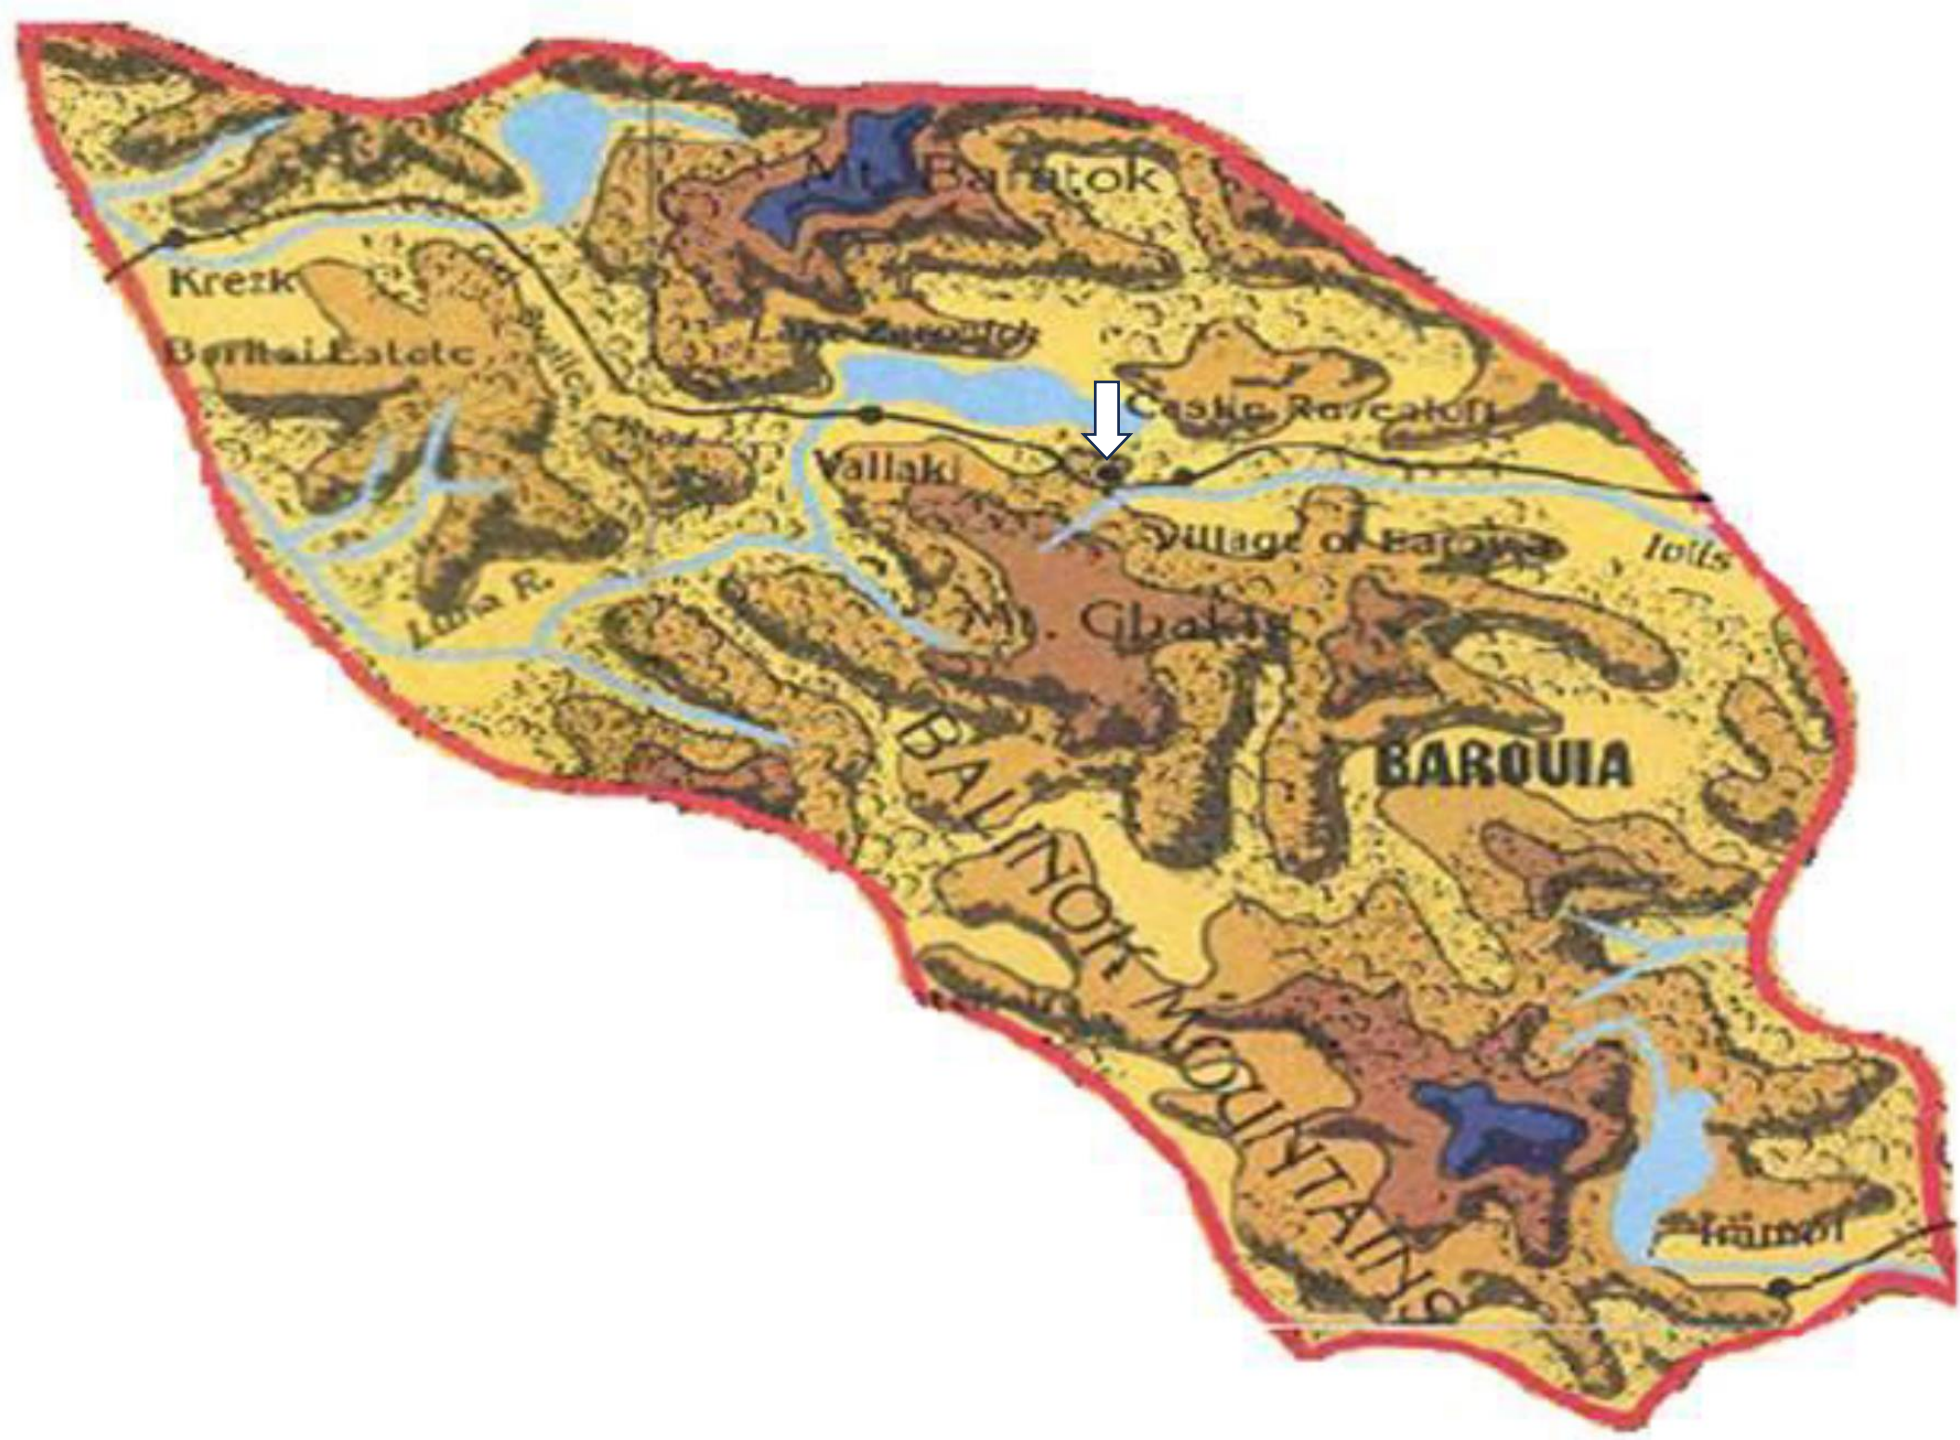

2. Strahd massacres a group of 15 brigands who have entered Barovia through the Mists. [I,SI pp. 25-34]

454 BC

The Barovian bard Gregorri Kolyan imprisoned in Castle Ravenloft. (April) At some point in the future, Kolyan is released with Strahd's terrible tale. There are some oddities in his account; could this all be more of Strahd's disinformation? [VRGtV pp. 7-8]

469 BC

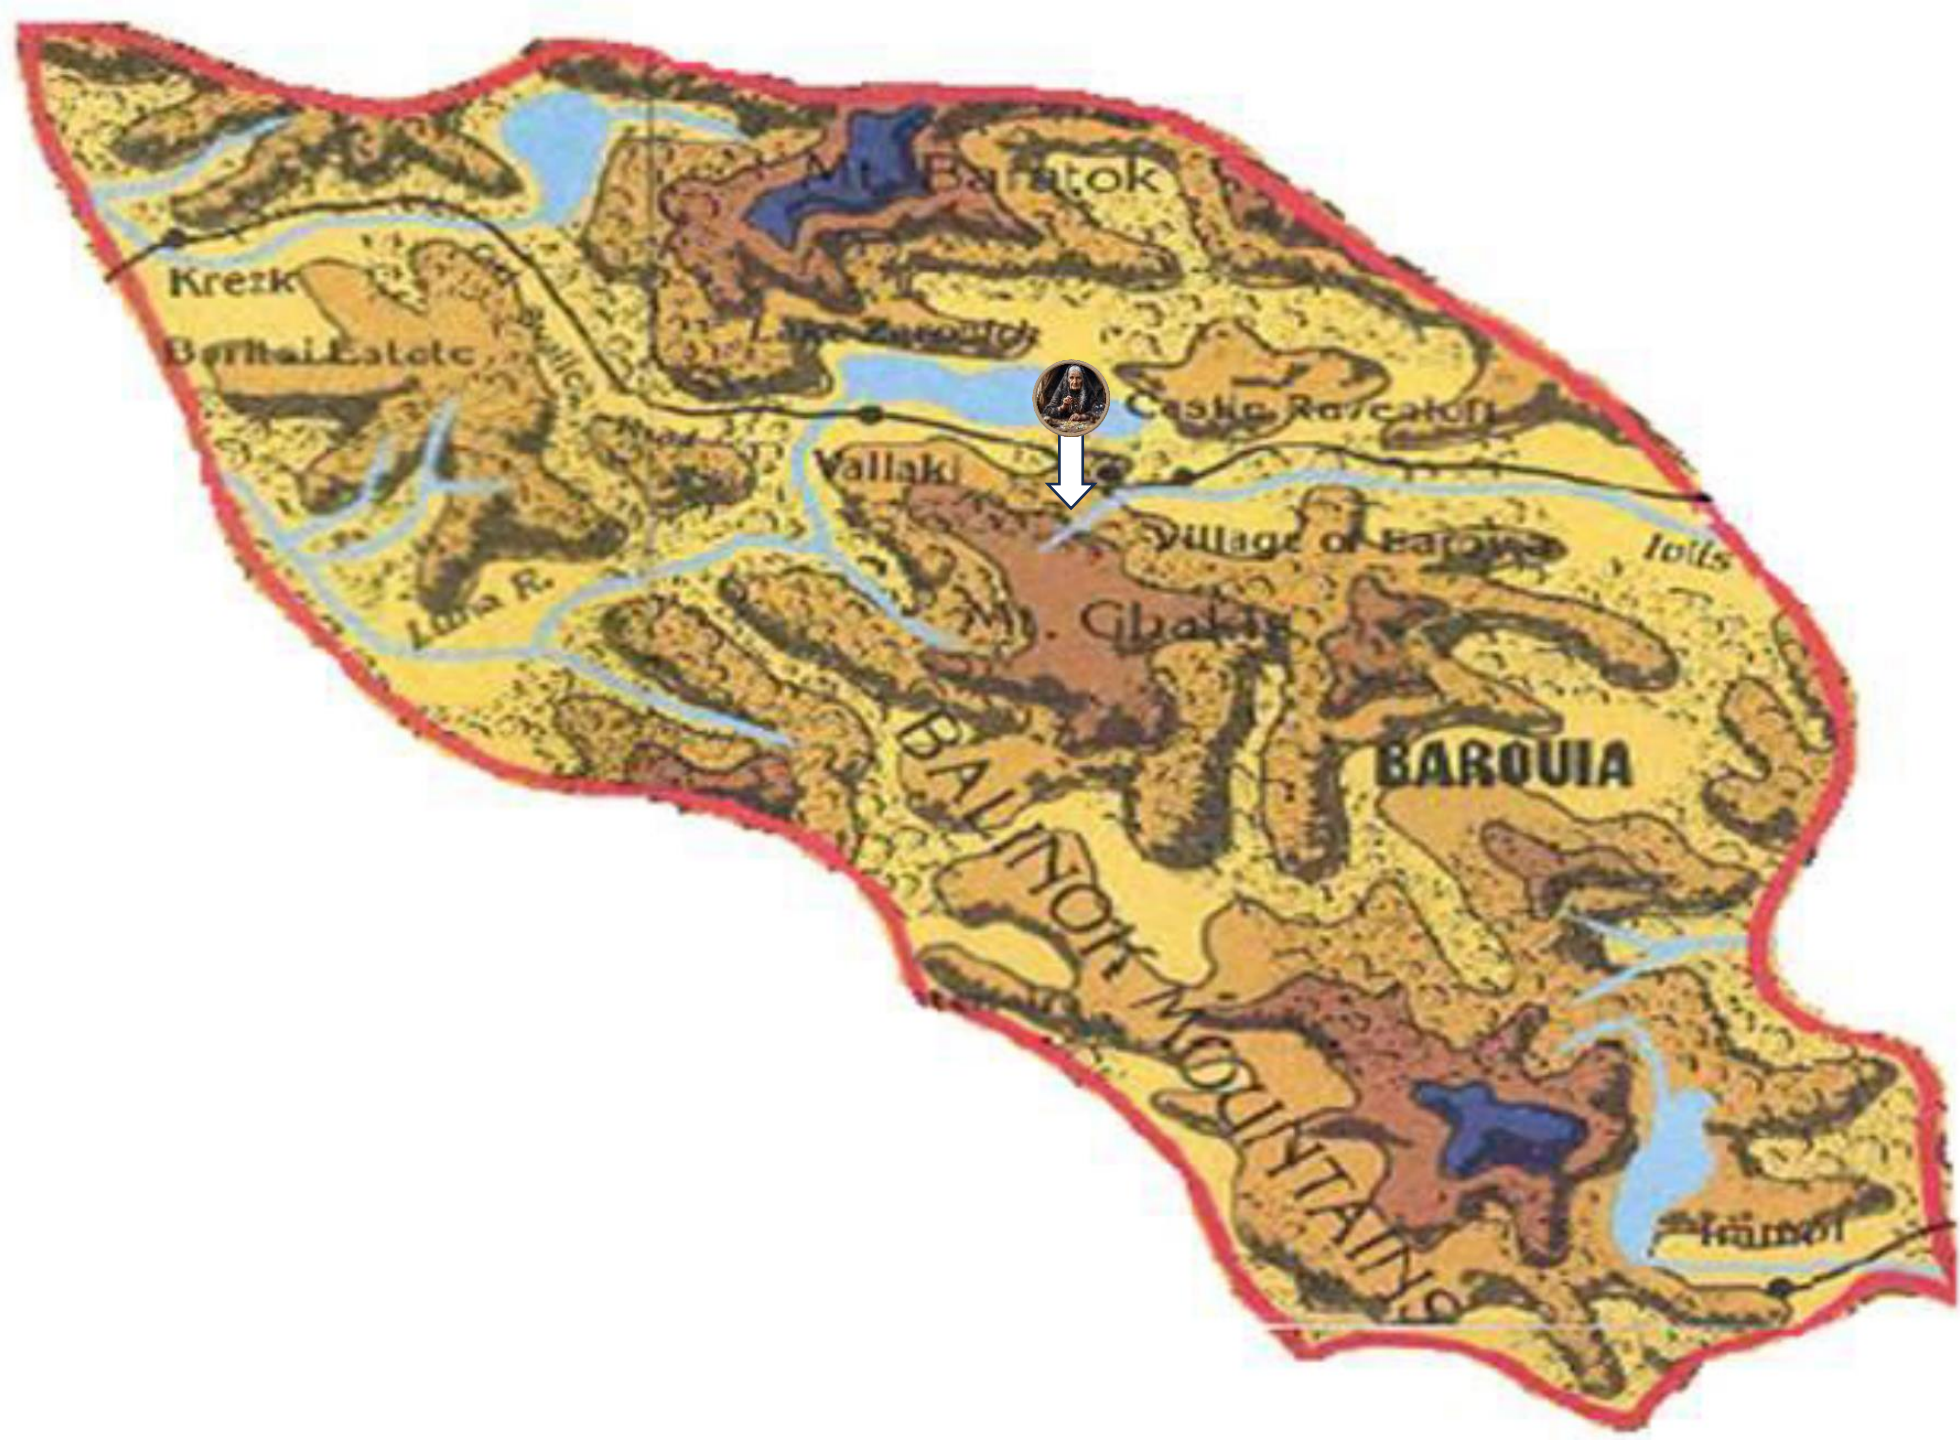

Jacqueline Montarri
born in Krezk.
[MCAI&II pg.. 89: She killed Madame Eva while in “her late twenties.” See “495:
Jacqueline Montarri
murders” for derivation of that date.]

470 BC

The Vistani appear at the exact stroke of midnight separating 469 from 470; Madame Eva & Strahd forge an alliance. Madame Eva also prophecies the coming of Azalin. Decades later, Azalin will pick up on the importance of this liminal moment and utilize it in the Requiem. According to Strahd's notes, in the Barovian calendar the night of the winter solstice marks the new year; this has either changed by 750 or Darkon uses a somewhat altered version of the original Barovian calendar, which is likely. [RoT; DoD pg.. 16; I,SI pp. 39, 63]

475 BC

1. Tatyana returns to Strahd a second time as Olya, but dies of fever (April). [VotM pp. 266-7]
2. The young (approx. age 10) Martyn Pelkar's life spared by Jander; Martyn believes he has met Lathander Morninglord. (April) [VotM pg.. 101, 267]
3. In response to this event, Martyn (soon known as Brother Martyn the Mad) starts singing the praises of the Morninglord, eventually starting a church in the Village of Barovia's abandoned chapel. Thus begins the Cult of the Morninglord. [VotM pg.. 134]
4. Alexi "Sasha" Petrovich born to a young Vistana and the daughter of the Burgomeister of the Village of Barovia. (Late fall) [Extrapolated from VotM]

477 BC

Maruschka comes into the full Sight.
[VotM pg.. 284]

479 BC

Leisl (Little Fox) born in Vallaki. [VotM pg..
173: she is 19 in 498.]

480 BC

Earliest known record of “Quinn Roche,” a collector of fine armor in life who repeatedly returned from the grave (as one of the ancient dead). [VRGAD pg.. 21]

485 BC

1. Sasha Petrovich's family killed by Strahd; Burgomeister's manor burned; Sasha taken in by Brother Martyn and trained as a priest. Burgomeister Radovich (currently in his late 20's) & his wife Ludmilla (currently about 20) assume Petrovich's title. [VotM pg.. 147-9, 167: Sasha is 10.]

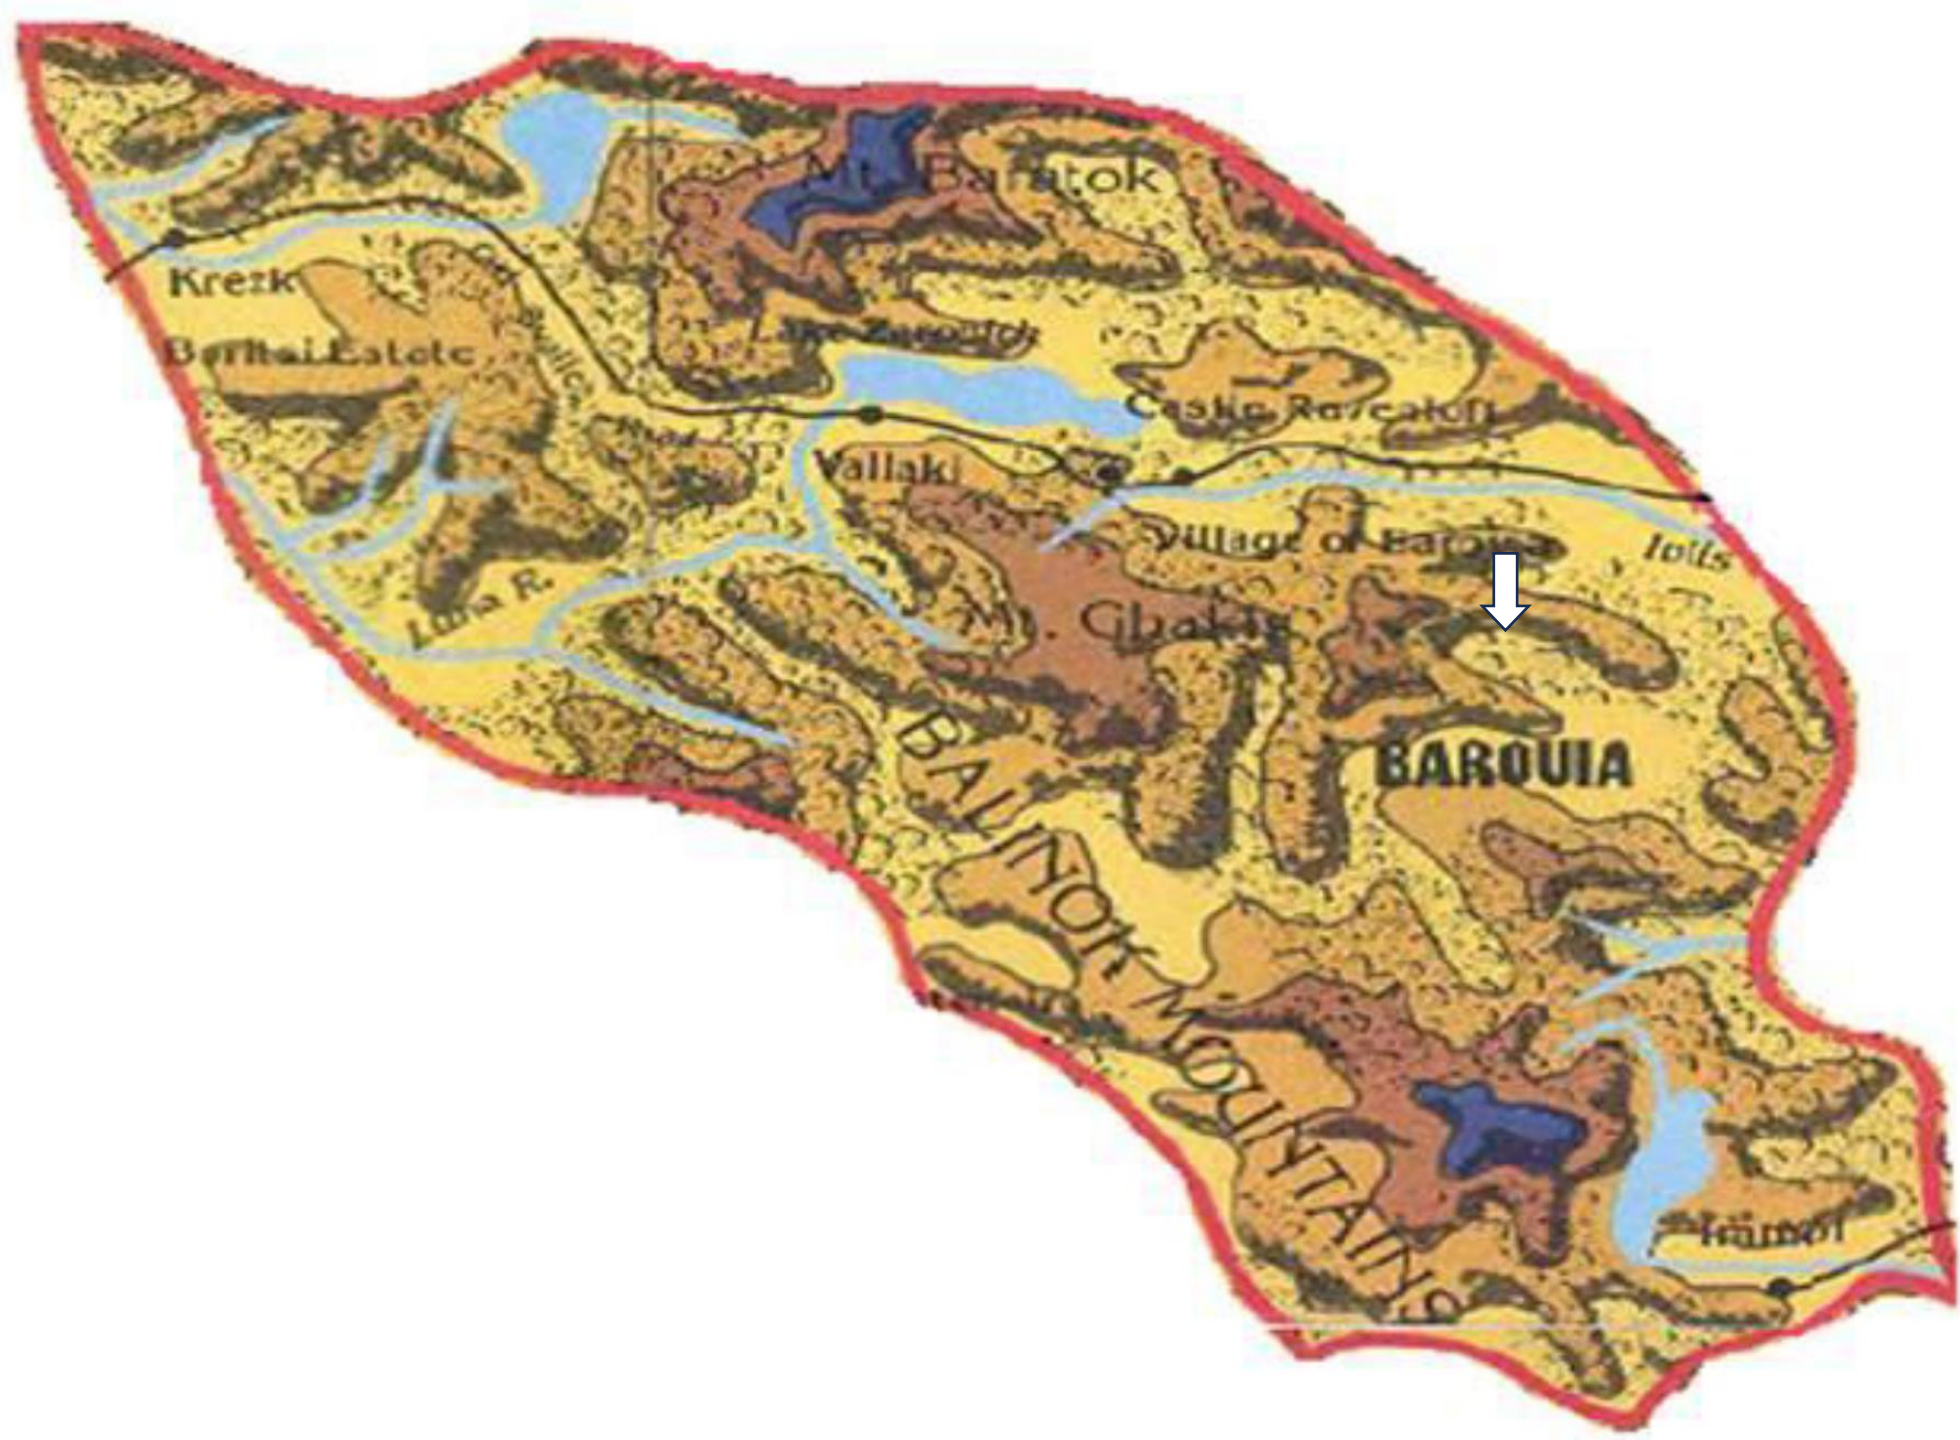

2. The teenaged Jacqueline Montarri is recognized as both one of Barovia's most skilled rogues and as one of its most beautiful women. [MCAI&II pg.. 89]

488 BC

Katrina Yakovlena Pulchenka born in Barovia, a werewolf.
[VotM pg.. 180: She matures through childhood at about twice the rate of a human.]

492 BC

Leisl is kicked out of her thieving guild;
goes it on her own.
[VotM pg.. 280]

495 BC

Jacqueline Montarri murders Madame Eva and is horrifically cursed. Madame Maruschka becomes the new raunie of the Zarovan tribe. (Note that Madame Eva is still seen after this; this can be accounted for by her tribe's existence in non-linear time.) [VotM pg. 284: "died four years ago." MCAI&II pp. 89-90: tells us how it happened.]

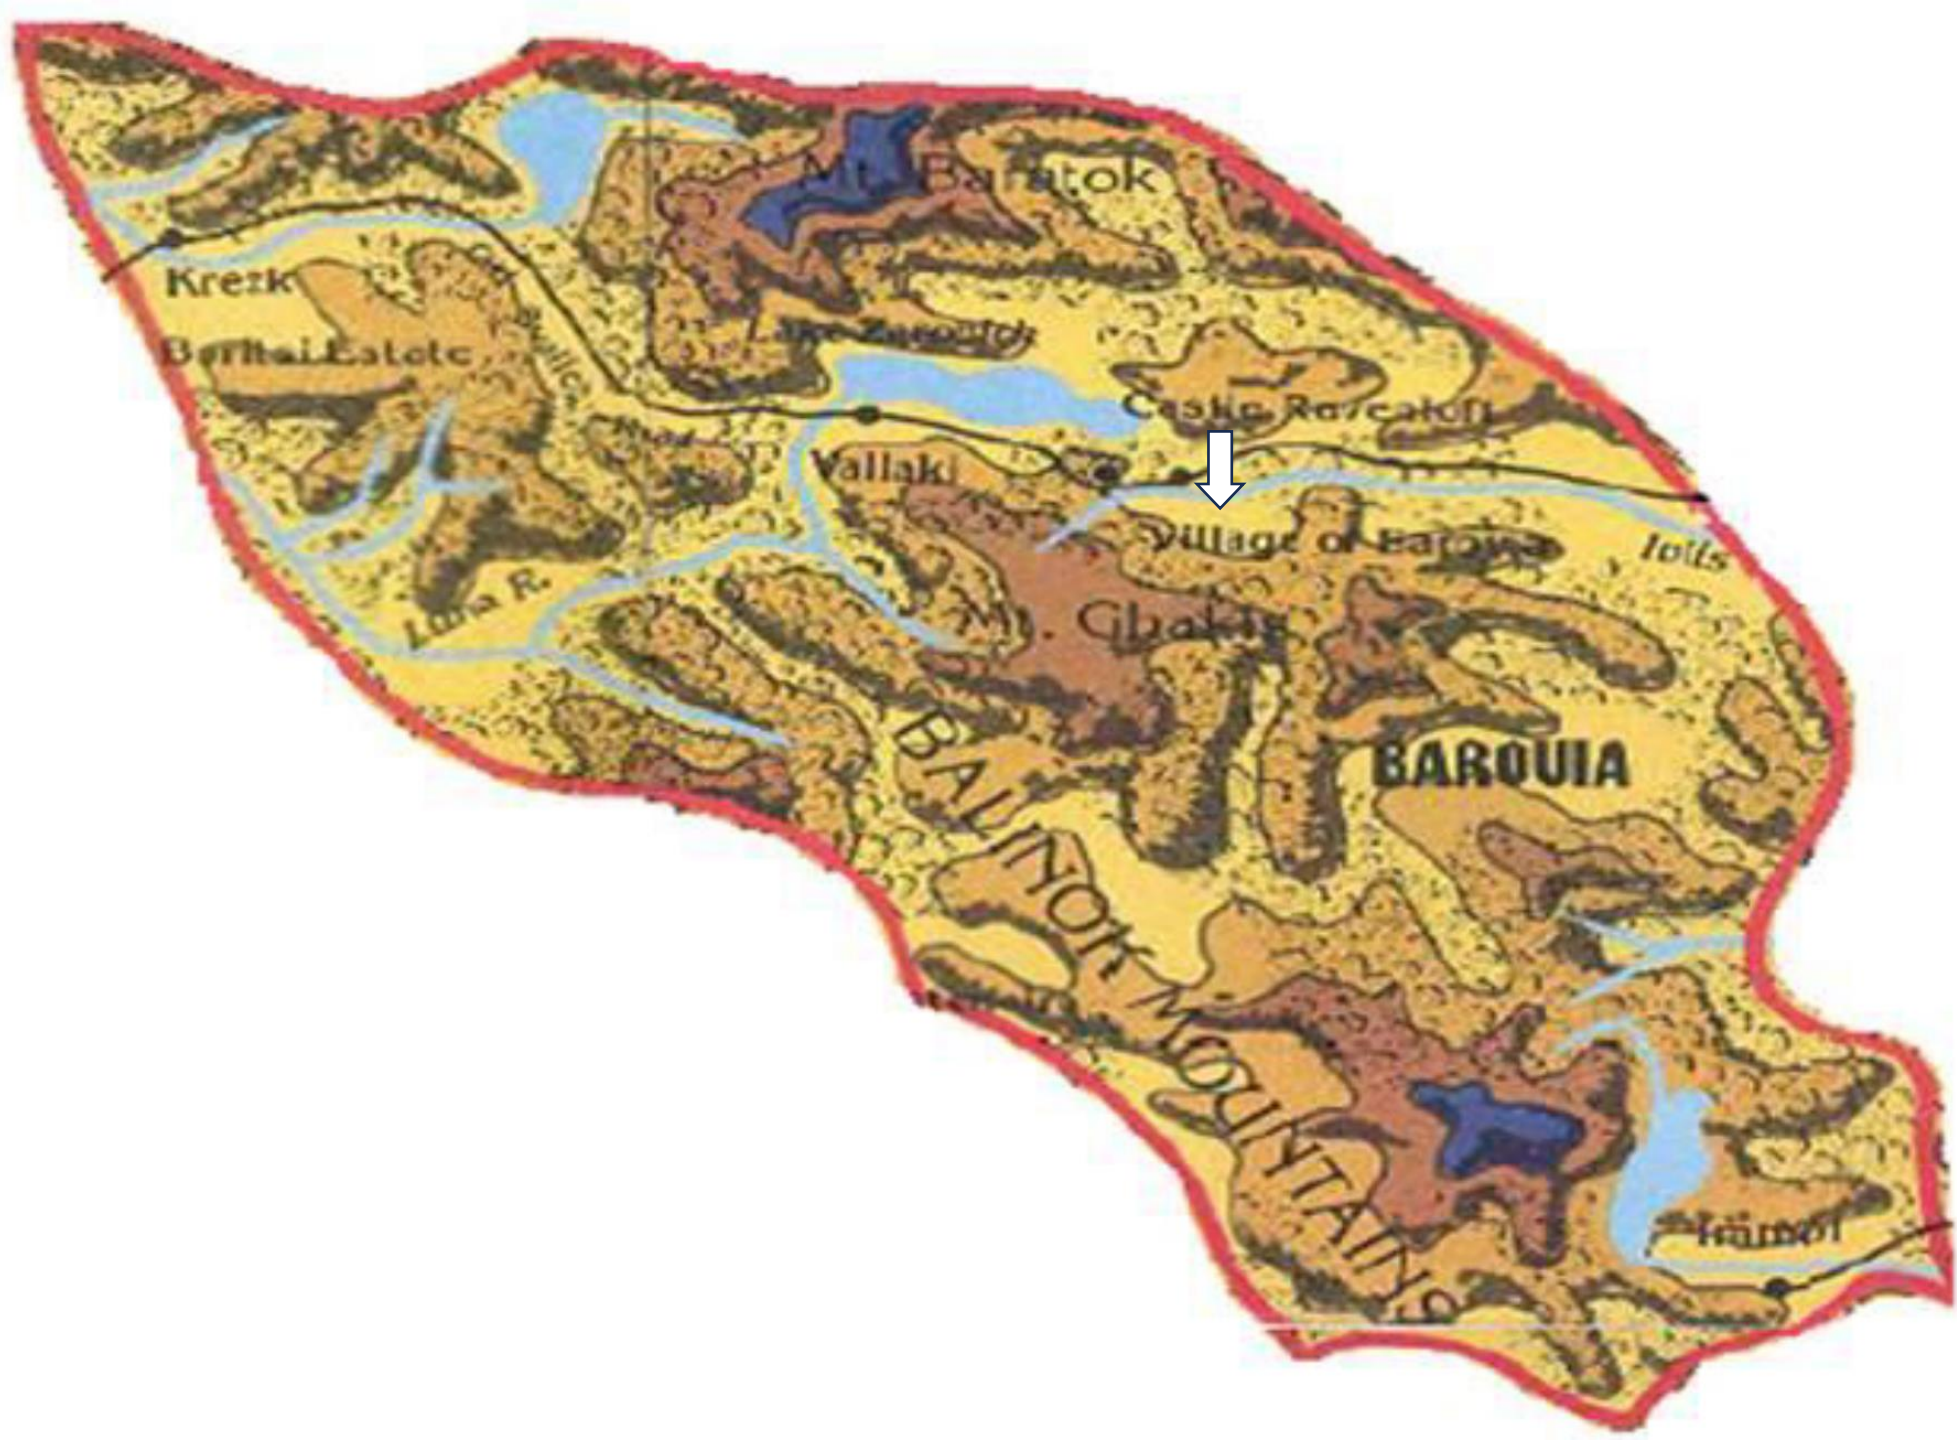

497 BC

Zorah Buchvold is born. She will later marry Baron Cazimir Latos, whose lands are near Vallaki. [I,II pg.. 73, 76]

499 BC

514 BC

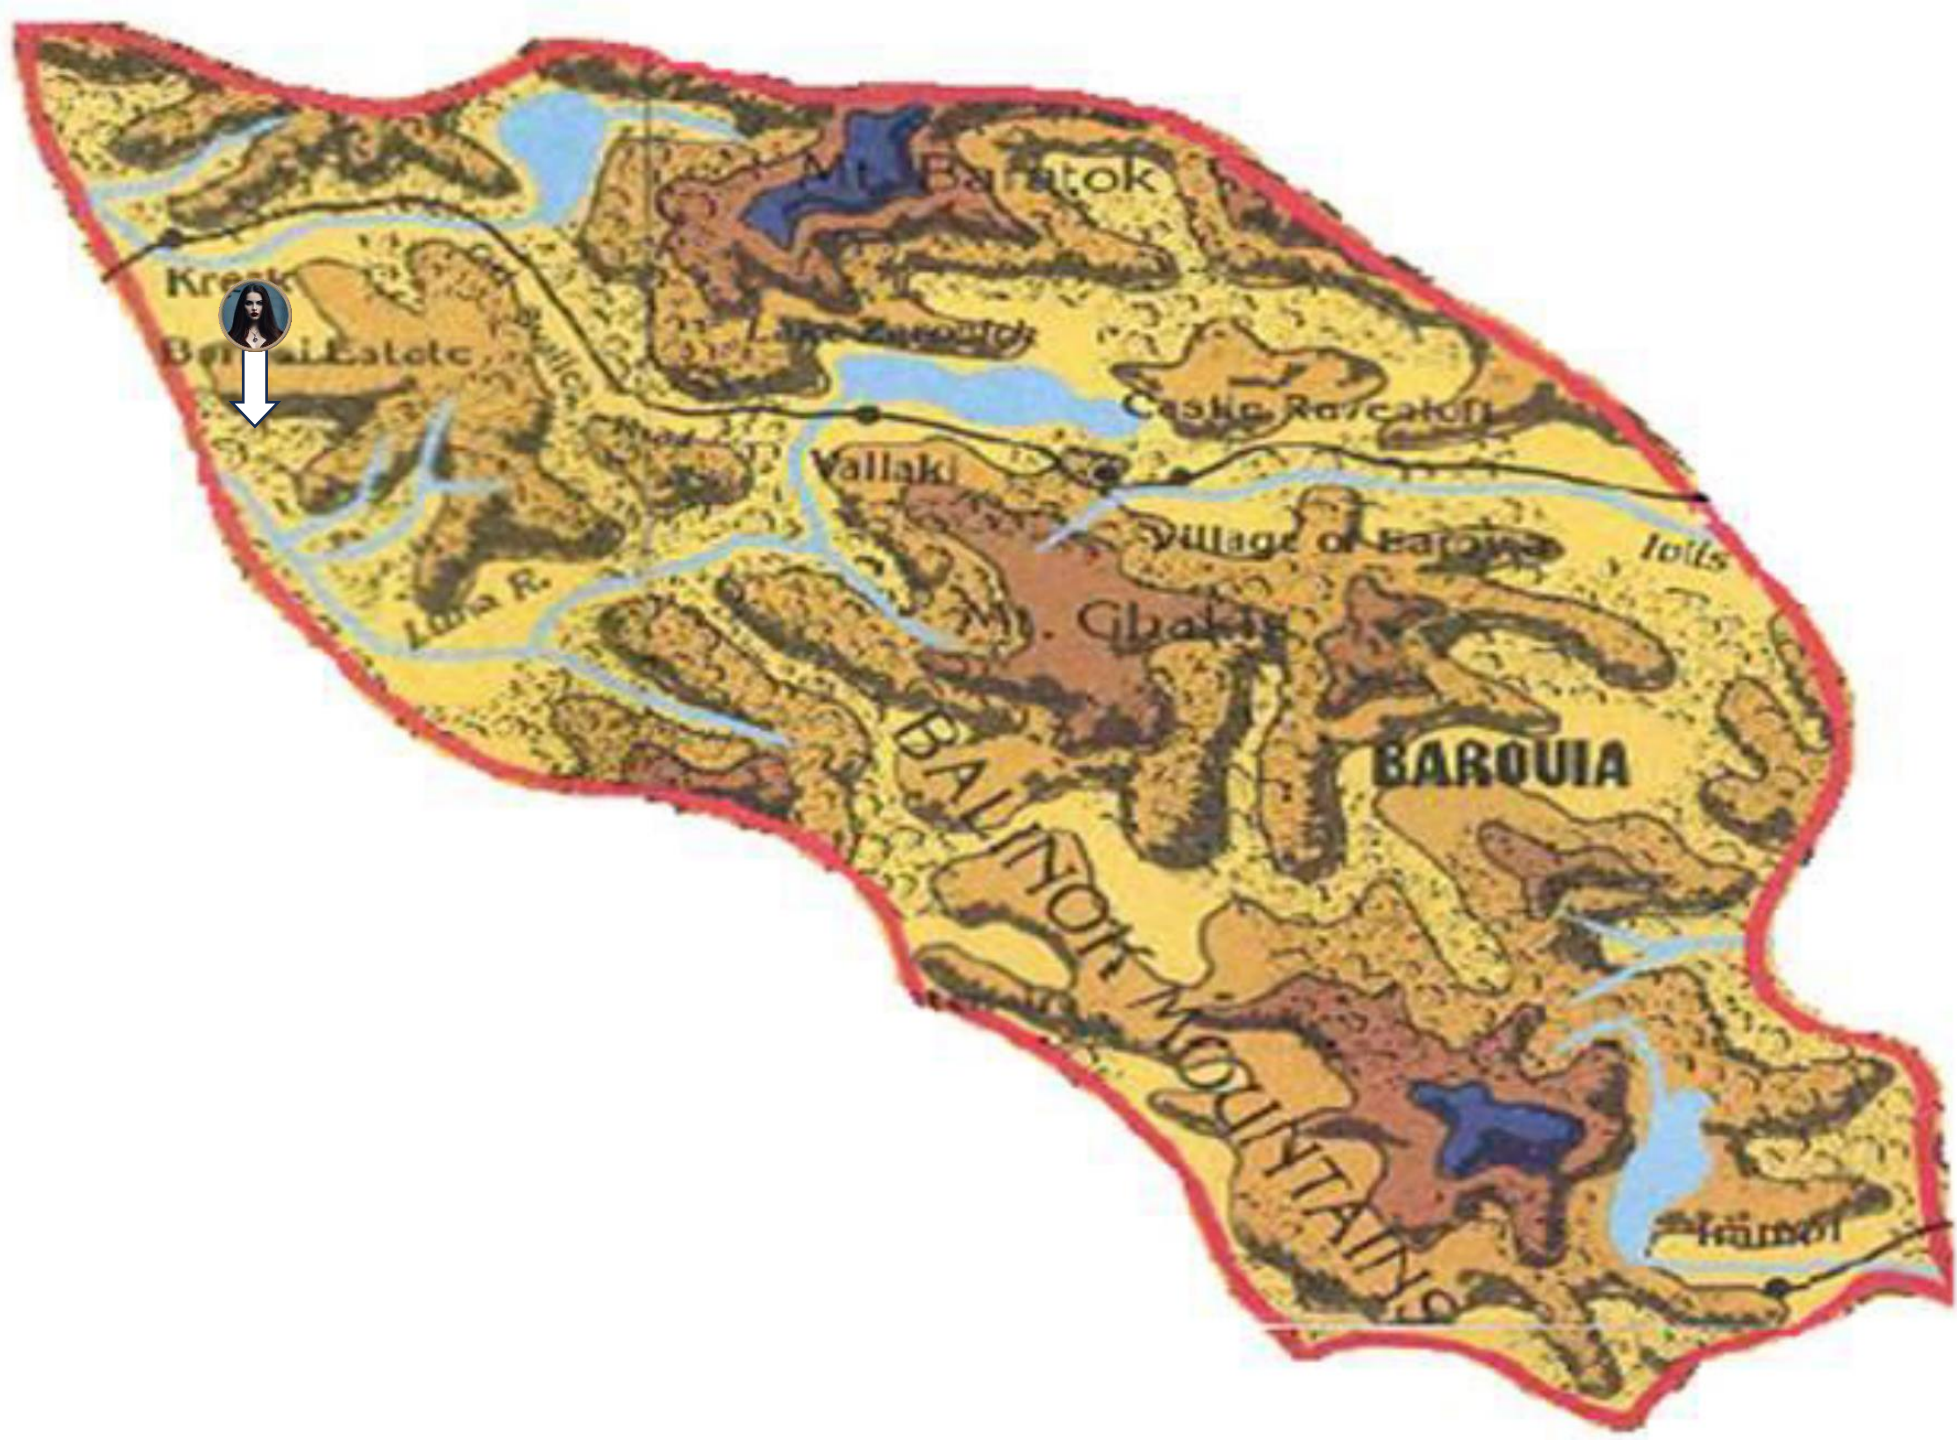

Yersinia Wachter born in Barovia. Her ancestor Victor Wachter was made a boyar with lands near the Krezk pass for his service to Strahd in the era surrounding the formation of the demiplane. [Speculation based on I, SII pg.. 246]

525 BC

Lyssa von Zarovich born in Barovia to Tod and Anna von Zarovich. (She is a granddaughter to Sturm von Zarovich.)
[Speculation based on ThoD pg.. 60; CotN:V]

528 BC

Powerful heroes assault Castle Ravenloft, confront Strahd, and are killed. (The “lower-level” Castle Ravenloft/House of Strahd.)
[DoD pg.. 16, RoT]

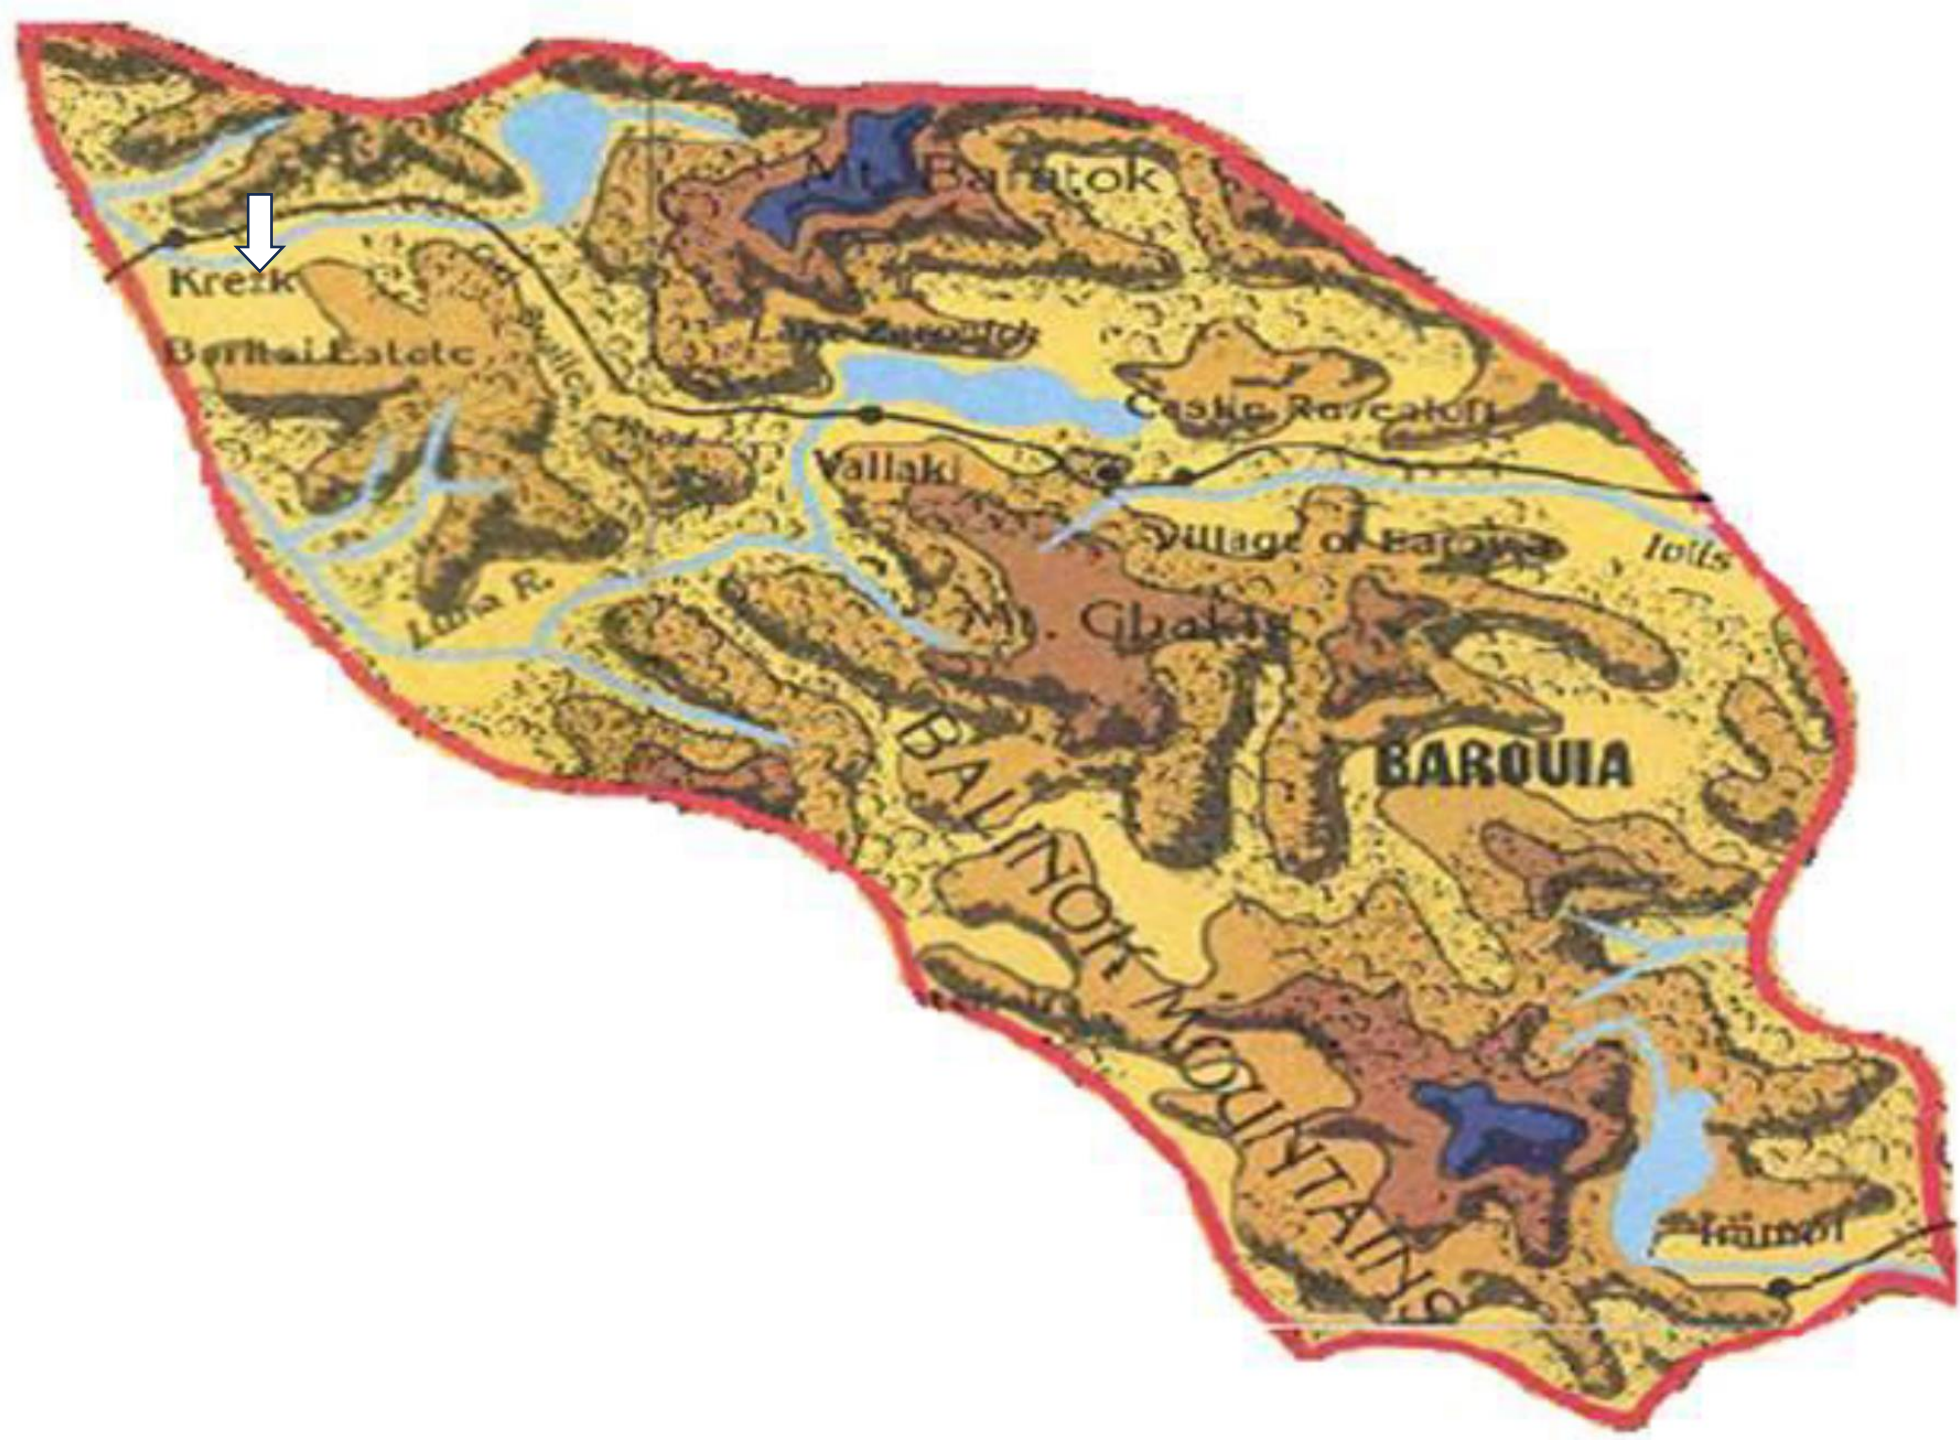

Sometime within a decade of this date, adventurers discover the Ba'al Verzi Knife within Castle Ravenloft. [BoSor: The Ba'al Verzi Knife]

537 BC

Aldrick Wachter born to Yersinia Wachter.
[Speculation based on I,SI
pg.. 247]

542 BC

1. Azal'Lan enters Ravenloft outside Berez, a village near Vallaki, just over a week before the summer solstice. He takes up residence in an abandoned manor, which was coincidentally Marina's home 150 years previously; Azalin becomes Strahd's "most powerful, and least trusted ally." Azalin starts reluctantly teaching Strahd more magic & researching the nature of the demiplane, with the goal of escape. (391 CY) [DoD pg.. 16; KotD pg.. 239; I,SII pg.. 67]

2. Strahd discusses the potential threat Azalin poses with Madame Ilka, the new raunie of the Zarovan tribe (Maruschka having apparently died at some point in the last 40 years). Madame Ilka gives Strahd the crystal ball he possesses to this day. Ilka hands it over willingly, according to Strahd. [I,SII pg.. 113]

543 BC

1. Azalin discovers Strahd's diaries and starts secretly annotating them in his personal notebooks. [I, SII pg. 35] Construction on Azalin's laboratory is completed. (Spring) [I, SII pg. 140]

2. With Strahd's assistance, Azalin tries his escape spell for the first time. They open a portal, but the Mists block their passage, causing the experiment to fail completely. The backlash temporarily knocks both Strahd and Azalin unconscious, and Strahd discovers Azalin's true nature for the first time. They repeat the experiment with each solstice and equinox for years, always failing. Theoretically, it is also possible that these experiments somehow triggered the manifestation of Strahd's lost humanity in Prime Material Mordent. (Summer solstice) [I, SII pp. 148-56, with some speculation.]

547 BC

1. The Time of Terrors reaches its climax; Timeframe B of Castle Tristenoira; Tristen executes Andrew ApFittle; Forfar wrenched into Ravenloft; Barovian explorers call this new land "Forlorn;" Barovia and Forlorn, as a domain cluster, are the beginning of the "Core." (1934 FC) [DoD pg.. 16; CF]

2. After a wild goose chase while searching for Tatyana's new incarnation, Strahd encounters Auric, son of Courewsy, a refugee from Forfar (possibly of druidic descent). Thus does Strahd learn of the addition of this new domain. Strahd scries the new domain a bit after discovering he cannot enter it, then informs Azalin of its appearance. During Azalin's exploratory venture into Forlorn, Strahd discovers his own ability to close Barovia's borders. (Summer) [I,SI pp. 171-203. There are inconsistencies in Strahd's account which betray some altering of the facts.]

550 BC

1. Tatyana returns to Strahd again; Azalin notes this. [KotD pg. 249: claims her name was “Olya” this time, but that’s an error.]

2. Refugees from Forlorn pour over the border and settle in the Barovian village of Immol.

3. Circa this year, a mad Vistana brings The King in Yellow from the Mists. [BoSo: Art in the Land]

551 BC

1. In the Black Land, priests murder the Pharaoh Ankhtepot in his sleep. Although he is dead, Ankhtepot discovers to his horror that he is still fully aware and trapped in his lifeless corpse. After the month-long funeral, the Mists claim Ankhtepot, and the domain of Har'Akir is formed. [DoD pg.. 16]

2. Sodo kills the elders of his clan; Zherisia drawn into the Mists. [DoD pg.. 16] It is possible the Black Land, Paridon, Forfar and Barovia all share the same prime and this expansion occurs as the Dark Powers pluck evil beings from various parts of that world's history.

554 BC

Driven by her hatred for Strahd, Lyssa von Zarovich forms her own dark pact and murders her fiancée to seal it. She becomes a vampire. Her fiancée returns as a ghost; she goads him into attacking her and artificially ages over 200 years overnight! [Speculation based on DoD pg.. 17; ThoD pg.. 60; CotN:V]

555 BC

Jander Sunstar emerges from the Mists in Forlorn. [Speculation based on CotN:V pg.. 7]

555 BC

Tiyet dreams of the underworld and is terrified. Worse still, she discovers that Khamose knows of her affair. At her pleading, Zordenahkt turns Tiyet into an undead horror and poisons himself. Tiyet rises as undead and murders Khamose. Sebua forms from the Mists. [Combined info from DoD pg. 16 and DL; DL taken alone indicates a date of about 629.]

567 BC

Notes on the Alchemie published in Paridon. [Based on descriptive text from John W. Mangrum's Teeny Tiny Tales of Terror project (contributed by Nathan Okerlund), from posts on the Fraternity of Shadows message board.]

570 BC

The domain of Kalidnay appears in the Mists, having been wrenched from Athas' ancient past. [DoD pg.. 16, FL]

This is potentially the first domain pulled from another Prime than Barovia's, but it is still a replica from the past.

574 BC

Grave robbers drill a tunnel into Sephren's Pyramid. They accidentally set off a trap that unleashed swarms of grave scarab beetles, resulting in all of the robbers' deaths. [Quoth the Raven Issue 5]

575 BC

1. Tatyana returns as “Tanya;” as always, she is lost. Azalin again pays close attention. [KotD pg.. 249]
2. Work on the Obsidian Gate is finally finished, but unbeknownst to Gwydion, Arak plans to use it to lead his people to freedom. Gwydion discovers the treachery at the last moment, but Arak sacrifices himself to hold the sorcerer-fiend off long enough for his people to escape. The Gate’s portal leads into the Demiplane of Dread, and the Mists part to form new lands for the shadow elves. At last, Gwydion destroys Arak, but Maeve closes the portal, trapping Gwydion in the space between dimensions. The new lands become the domain of Arak, with the powerless Gwydion as darklord. The shadow elves quickly make a new home for themselves underground, far from the lethal sun, but tales begin to spread of the fey. To honor their fallen leader, the shadow elves rename themselves the Arak. [DoD pg.. 16; RoT; TSRift pg.. 125] Arak may have originally been intended as Azalin’s domain, but Gwydion’s entry at the time of its creation forced the Dark Powers to scramble so that the powerful entity could be contained.
3. Azalin spends several months exploring Arak. By this point his theoretical knowledge of the Demiplane has grown to include conjunctions. Perhaps his personal familiarity with the terrain will be a factor in Arak’s absorption in Darkon in 740? [I,SI pp. 205, 21-15, with some speculation. Strahd’s account is so riddled with inaccuracies it couldn’t be anything but an attempt to obfuscate the truth.]
4. While Azalin is off exploring Arak, Strahd explores the Berez laboratory and discovers Azalin’s secret journals. Eventually, Strahd discovers Azalin’s true name. [I,SI pp. 216-7]

576 BC

Rumors begin to speculate that the “fey” living beneath Arak are actually drow. Drawn by these rumors, a trio of actual dark elves new to the demiplane find their way to the realm of the shadow elves, and are immediately accepted. The leader of the drow, an outcast priestess of Lolth, introduces worship of her goddess to the fey. Soon, the initial tales of shadow elves are all but forgotten, and for centuries those living on the surface assume the hidden denizens of Arak are drow elves. [Speculation based on TSRift pp. 125-6]

579 BC, Autumn

1. Azalin continues his research into escaping the demiplane, narrows in on success; he scribes a land beyond the Mists, and works to open a portal to this land by bringing the lands into alignment. [Speculation based info from THoGH; RoT]

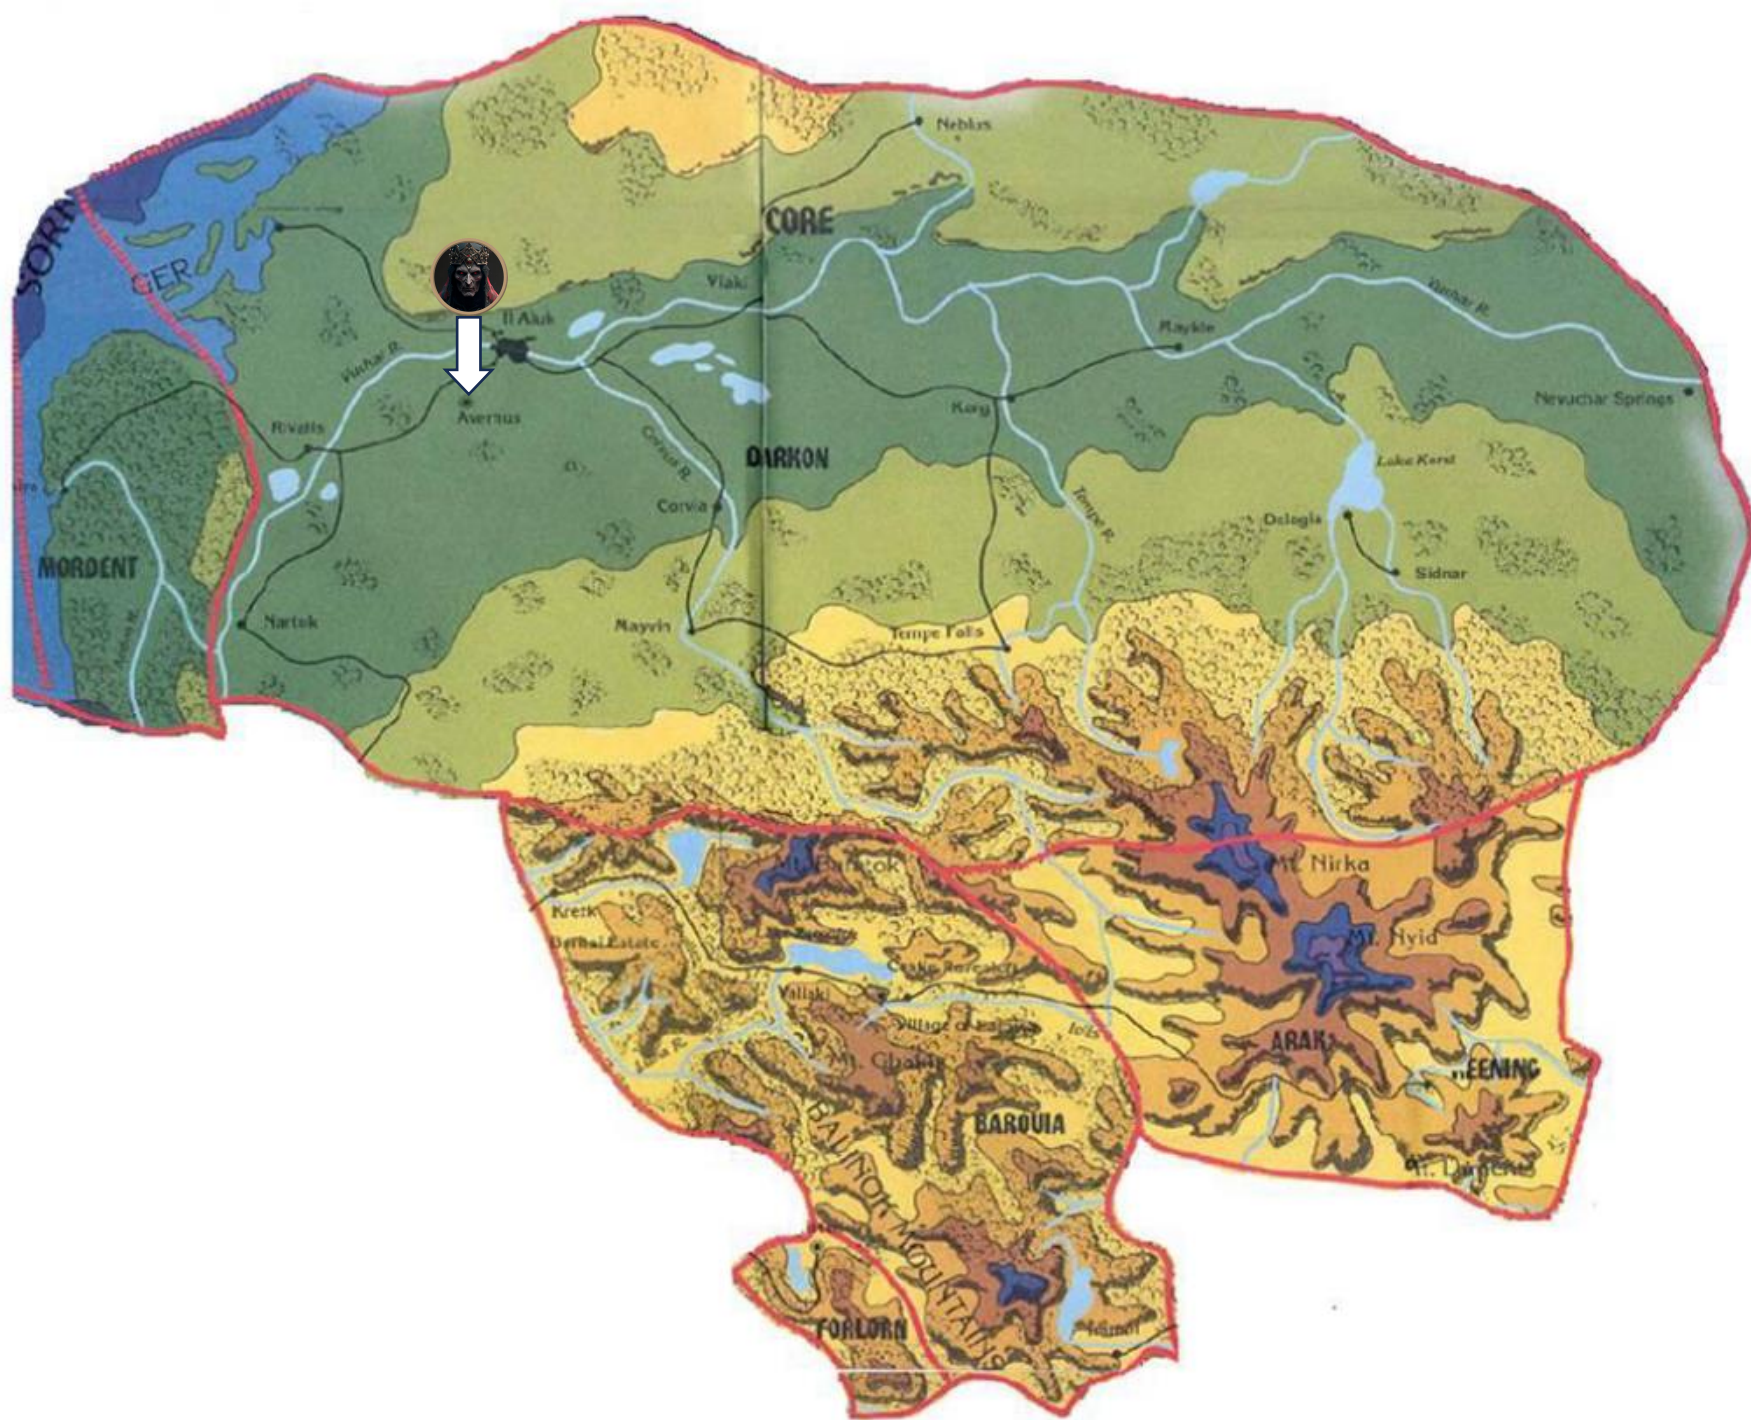

2. Under a new moon, Azalin and the Creature Strahd enter the portal; at the same time, the Alchemist Strahd activates the Apparatus in an attempt to purify his soul of evil. The Berez laboratory is completely disintegrated by the magical backlash of the opened vortex. Mordent is sucked into the demiplane, its status unsure (not a true domain, no clear darklord); the dark powers seethe. The two Strahds get wrapped up in an attempt to destroy each other. The Alchemist Strahd is killed; the Creature Strahd is nearly killed, and forced into regenerative hibernation back in Barovia; Azalin realizes the new land is inherently unstable and retreats to Barovia; the dark powers calm down; Mordent becomes a domain in the Core, with Wilfred Godefroy as darklord. (October) (Ravenloft II: The House on Gryphon Hill) [My interpretation of data from DoD pg.. 16; RoT; KotD; THoGH; I,SII pp. 227, 229. According to I,SII pg.. 218 this takes place in November by the Barovian calendar. Darn Barovian propaganda.]

579 BC, Winter

Azalin has learned from the Mordent experiment, but most of his memories from Mordent are hazy. Convinced he's within a hair's breadth of success, and that he could do better without Strahd on his back, Azalin enters the Mists. Darkon is formed; Azalin learns just how bad a mistake he's made. At this time, Martira Bay is no more than a small fishing village. [Speculation based on THoGH; minor contradiction with KotD (mainly in Azalin's motivation); BH.]

580 BC

1. Master Bralkain and his wizard underlings inadvertently create the Key to the Abyss, thereby enabling the Whistling Fiend to enter the Land of Mists [TSR Jam 1999 Heart's Final Beat] The Whistling Fiend appears in Darkon; destroys the village of Creeana. [THFB; VRGtF pg.. 41: The WF next appears “over a century later.” See: “682: Alyn Dragant.”]

2. Strahd awakes back in Barovia, with only the ghost of a memory of what happened in Mordent. In a diary later leaked to Van Richten, Strahd claims that Azalin was still in Barovia when he awoke, but this is blatantly untrue. (Spring) [I,II pp. 227, 230]

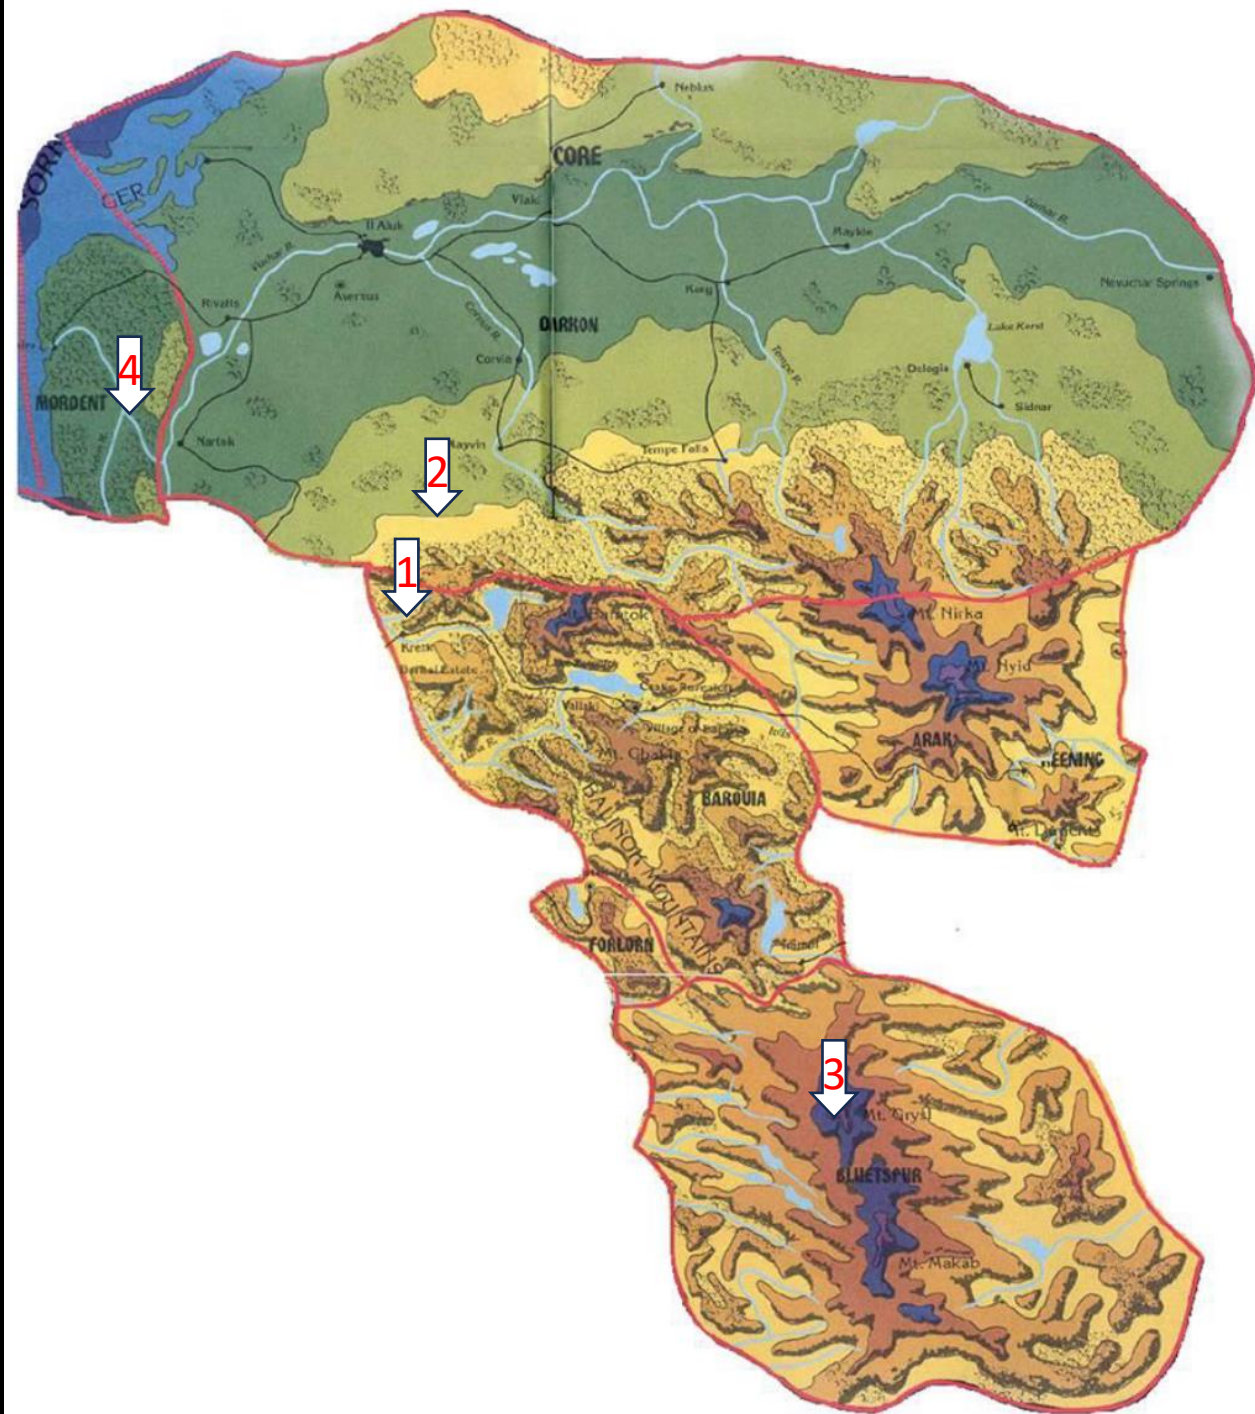

3. Azalin sends disposable units of shambling undead into Barovia to pester Strahd, which Strahd tries to pass off as a war in his propaganda. [I,II pg.. 250-264]

581 BC

1. A lycanthropic Kargat agent infiltrates the Krezk militia, slaughtering a barracks full of soldiers before being slain himself. (Early summer) [I,II pp. 265-6]
2. A small group of Strahd's forces manage to assassinate many of the leaders of Azalin's fledgling Kargat, apparently crippling the secret police for years. With this defeat, Azalin ceases his border skirmishes. (Summer) [I,II p. 265-302]
3. Illithids spawn Bluetspur from the land once known as Thaan. [DoD pg.. 16; FL]
4. The Blackburn-Bruce family disperses after they are erroneously tied to the Alchemist that had caused so much trouble in Mordentshire over a year ago.

583 BC

The last of the three drow in Arak are wiped out, victim to a long string of assassinations, but their worship of Lolth lives on, with the fey “Tristessa” (as she will later become known to surface dwellers) as high priestess. Alarmed by the cult’s lack of respect for the Law of Arak, Loht attempts to suppress the religion. This rapidly balloons into a major power struggle. [Speculation based on TSRift pg. 126]

584 BC

Ghastria Forms –It is connected to Mordent by culture and language, and even spends time as part of the Core on some maps later.

585 BC

1. Andres Duvall born in Sidnar to an elven mother and human father. [MCAI&II pp. 97]

2. Thaani stream into Barovia from Bluetspur. [Gazetteer I p. 18]

3. An exploratory party of spelunkers explores the depths under Arak and come back up the same day. For the spelunkers, the trip had been three whole weeks. From then on, Arakian miners avoided straying far from the surface as much as they could. [Gazetteer V p. 106]

586 BC

Sodo gains the Fang of the Nosferatu; 6 killings rock Paridon. [Extrapolated from the date for HotK in DoD, pg.. 17]

587 BC

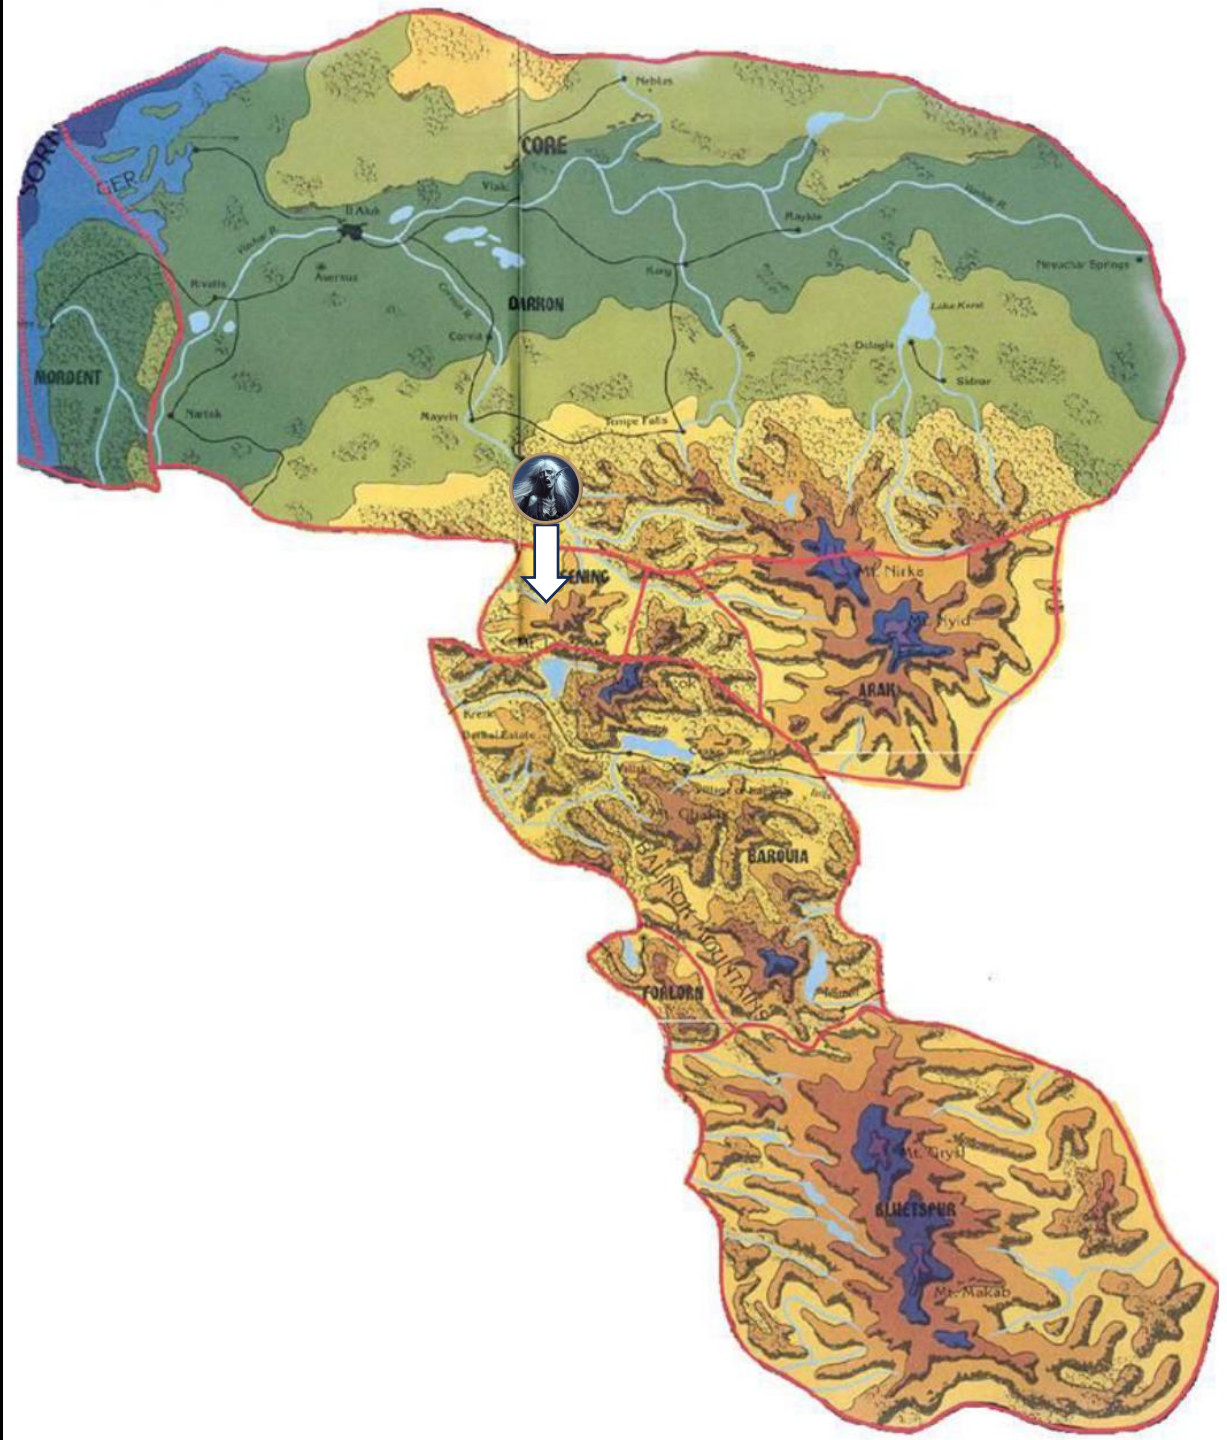

Herman von Shreck is born in Darkon (or so he later claims). [M pg.. 15. See "708: Dr. Mordenheim."]

588 BC

Loht, Prince of Shadows and lord of the Unseelie Court, breaks the Law of Arak by having Tristessa executed (along with her deformed child). Keening appears; all surface life in Arak wiped out. [DoD pg.. 16; RoT; DL; SoDk; TSRift pg.. 126]

590 BC

While butchering some northern town, Diamabel is struck down by a sniper's arrow. Rather than dying, Diamabel wakes the next morning to find himself transformed. The domain of Pharazia is formed. [DoD pg..16, 106; IoT]

590 BC

Immediately upon entering the Sea of Sorrows, Urdogen's ship sinks, but the Raging Tears and its captain return as a ghost ship. [BoSor: The Return of Urdogen] It is the Sea in the demiplane, but not yet called the Sea of Sorrows.

593 BC

1. Gundar and his two children (Medraut and an unnamed daughter) enter Ravenloft in Barovia, but they flee into the Mists when confronted by Strahd; the domain of Gundarak is formed. [DoD pg.. 16; RoT; KotBR pg.. 19]

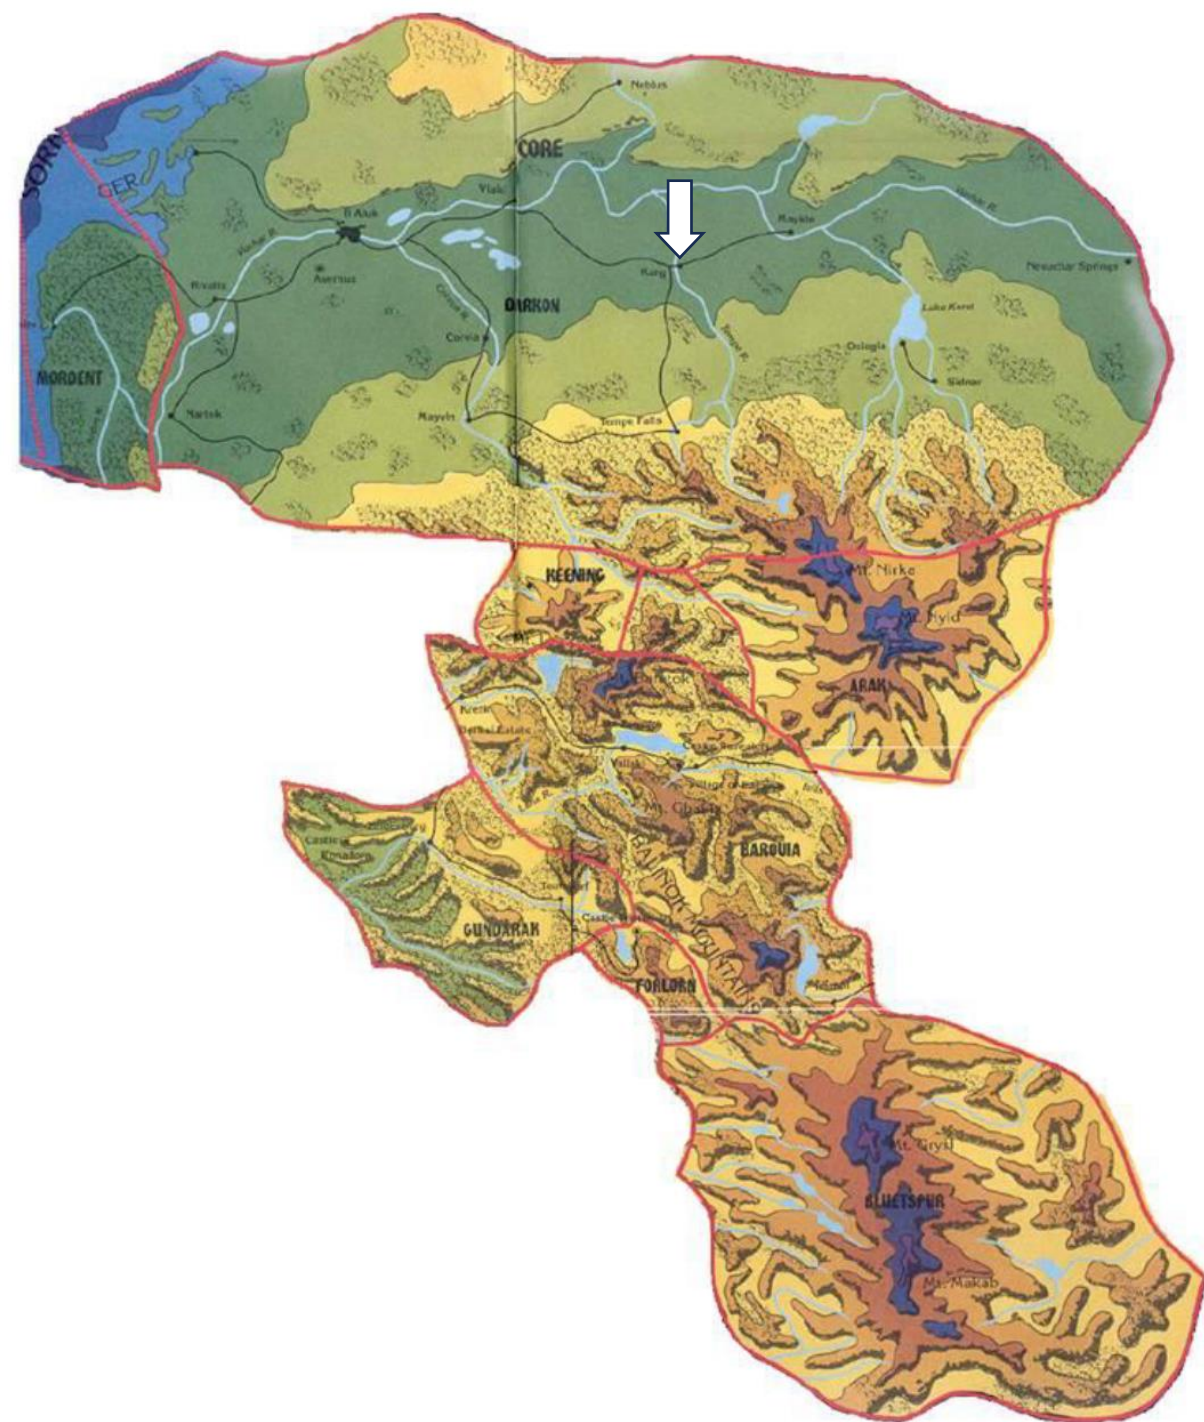

2. The de Boistribue Family disappears, leaving behind partly chewed bodies of servants, bloodstains, claw marks, and a single survivor: a servant driven so mad as to prevent the telling of what happened during the incident. [Gazetteer III p.48 places this in 493, before entering Ravenloft. While there's nothing wrong with this, I find it a wasted opportunity to have this occur before the land is truly cursed, so I've moved it up a century, as well as a few others]

595 BC

Malamere turns Tavelia into a vampire. Tavelia is enslaved by Malamere, but her contributions to the Kargat speed her up the ranks. Eventually at some later date, she received her freedom for her efforts, and Azalin eliminates Malamere. [Death Undaunted p. 4]

596 BC

When Gundar's daughter is killed by her brother, Gundar and his son Medraut discover a portal (presumably out of Ravenloft); although they cannot pass through the portal, they use necromancy to keep it open. [Speculation based on KotBR pg.. 219: "hundreds of years past." That would imply a date as least as far back as 520, but this is about as early as it can be.]

597 BC

Farelle forms in the Mists

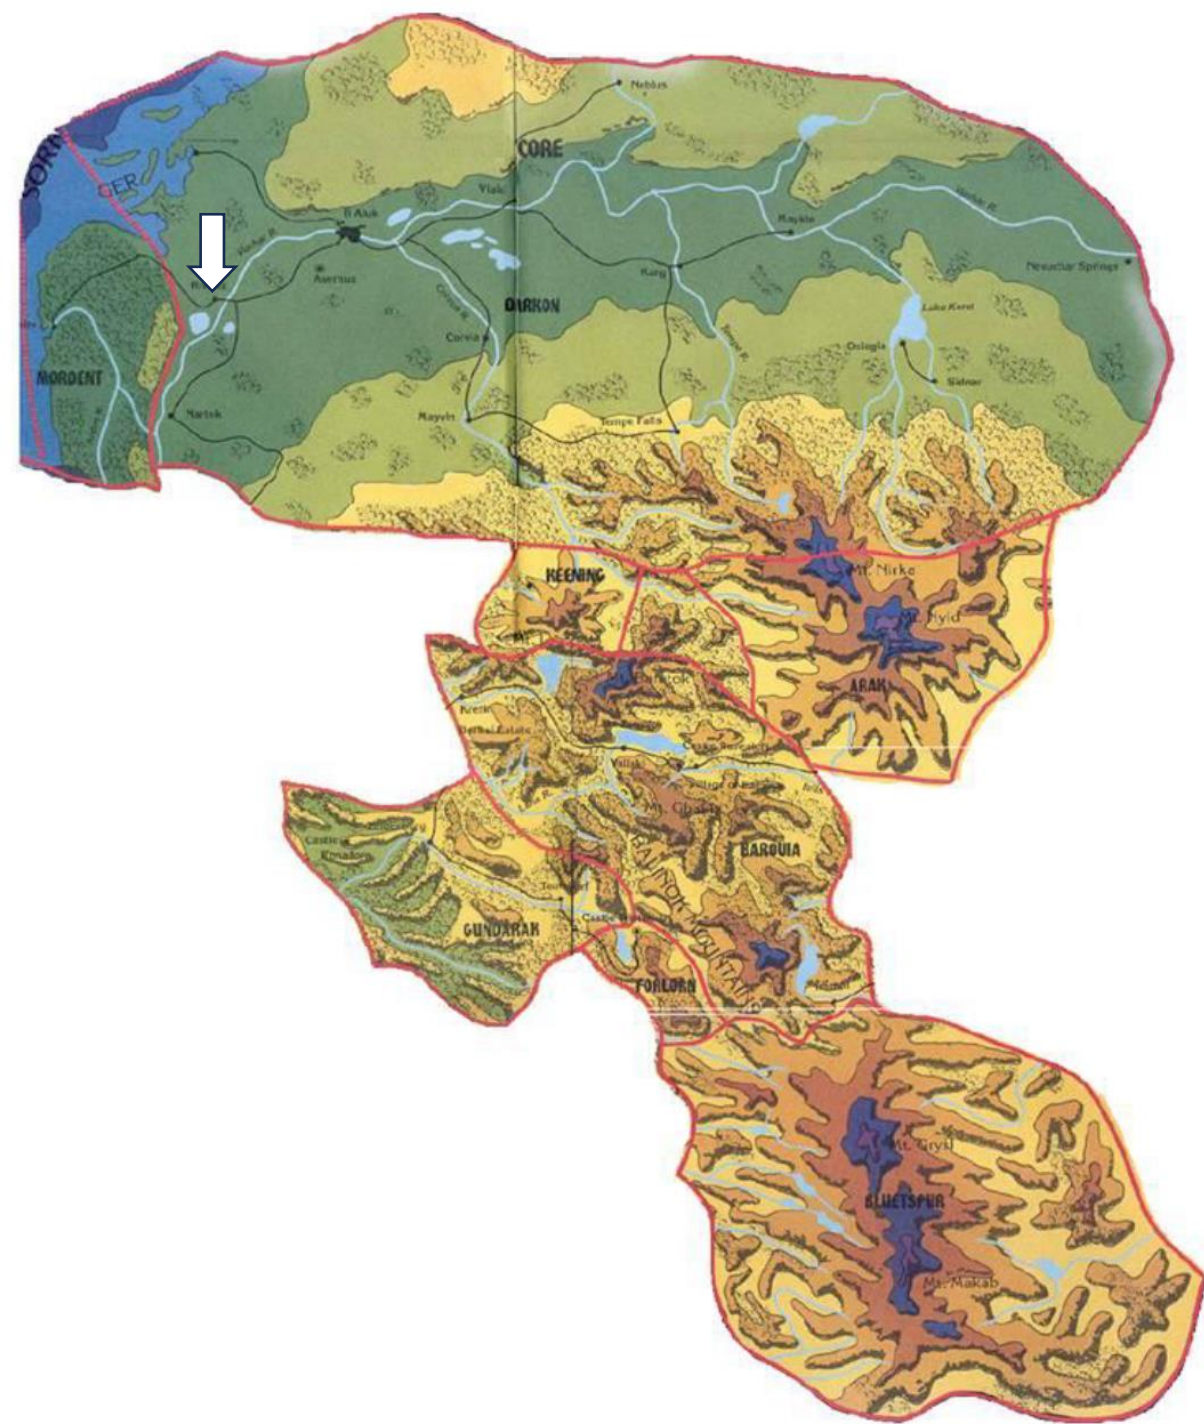

599 BC

Paridon is rocked by another 6 killings. [Extrapolated from the date for HotK in DoD, pg.. 17]

600 BC

A ranger named Ahmi Vanjuko investigating Easan's lair at the time is also drawn into the demiplane, emerging in Barovia. (449 CY)
[DoD pg.. 16, 82; MCAI&II pg.. 85]

602 BC

1. The opera Massa di Requiem per Shuggay is believed to have been composed ~~in Borea~~ during this year. [BoSo: Art in the Land] Borea is not formed yet, so I've placed this in Krezk, Barovia.

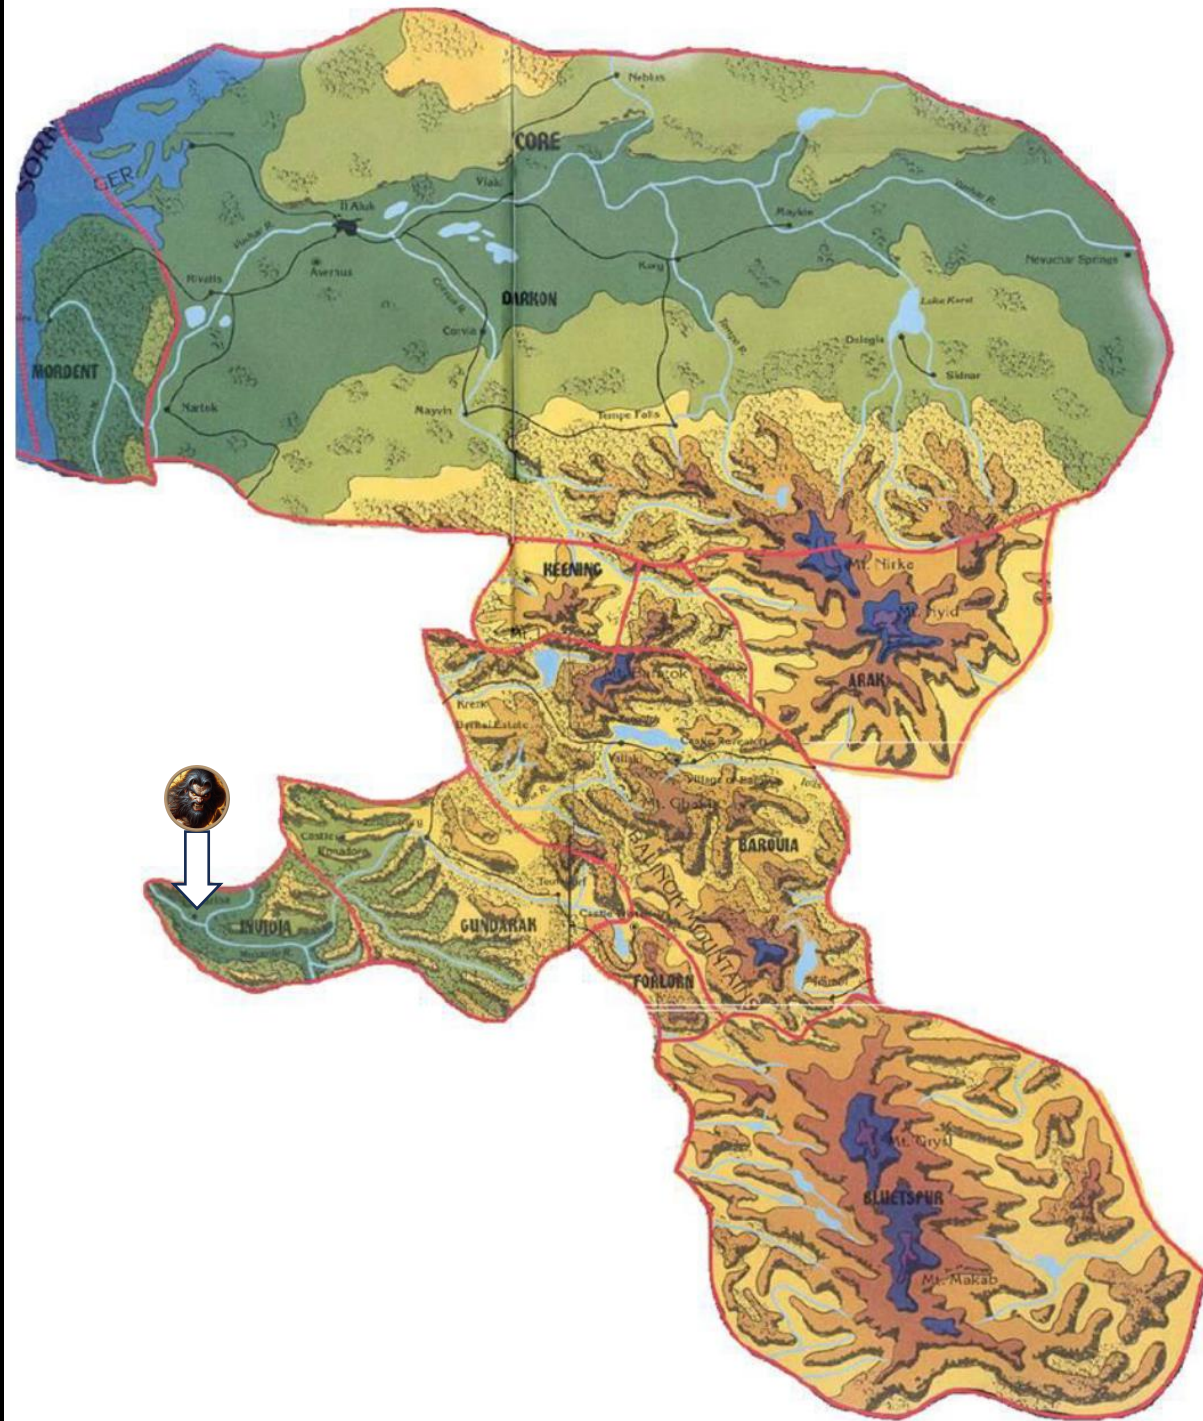

2. Many of the Halloway Family and their associates and friends die suspicious deaths. [Gazetteer III p. 54 places this in 502, but again, I wanted the event to happen in the demiplane.]

603 BC

Invidia is formed, with the werewolf Bakholis as lord;
Bakholis sets up shop at Castle Loupet. [DoD pg.. 16;
TEE pg.. 4] In my own canon, Bakholis entered the Mists as a lieutenant of Gundar. As a Cursed werewolf, he is considered an abomination by the pureblood
Timothy clan in Mordent.

605 BC

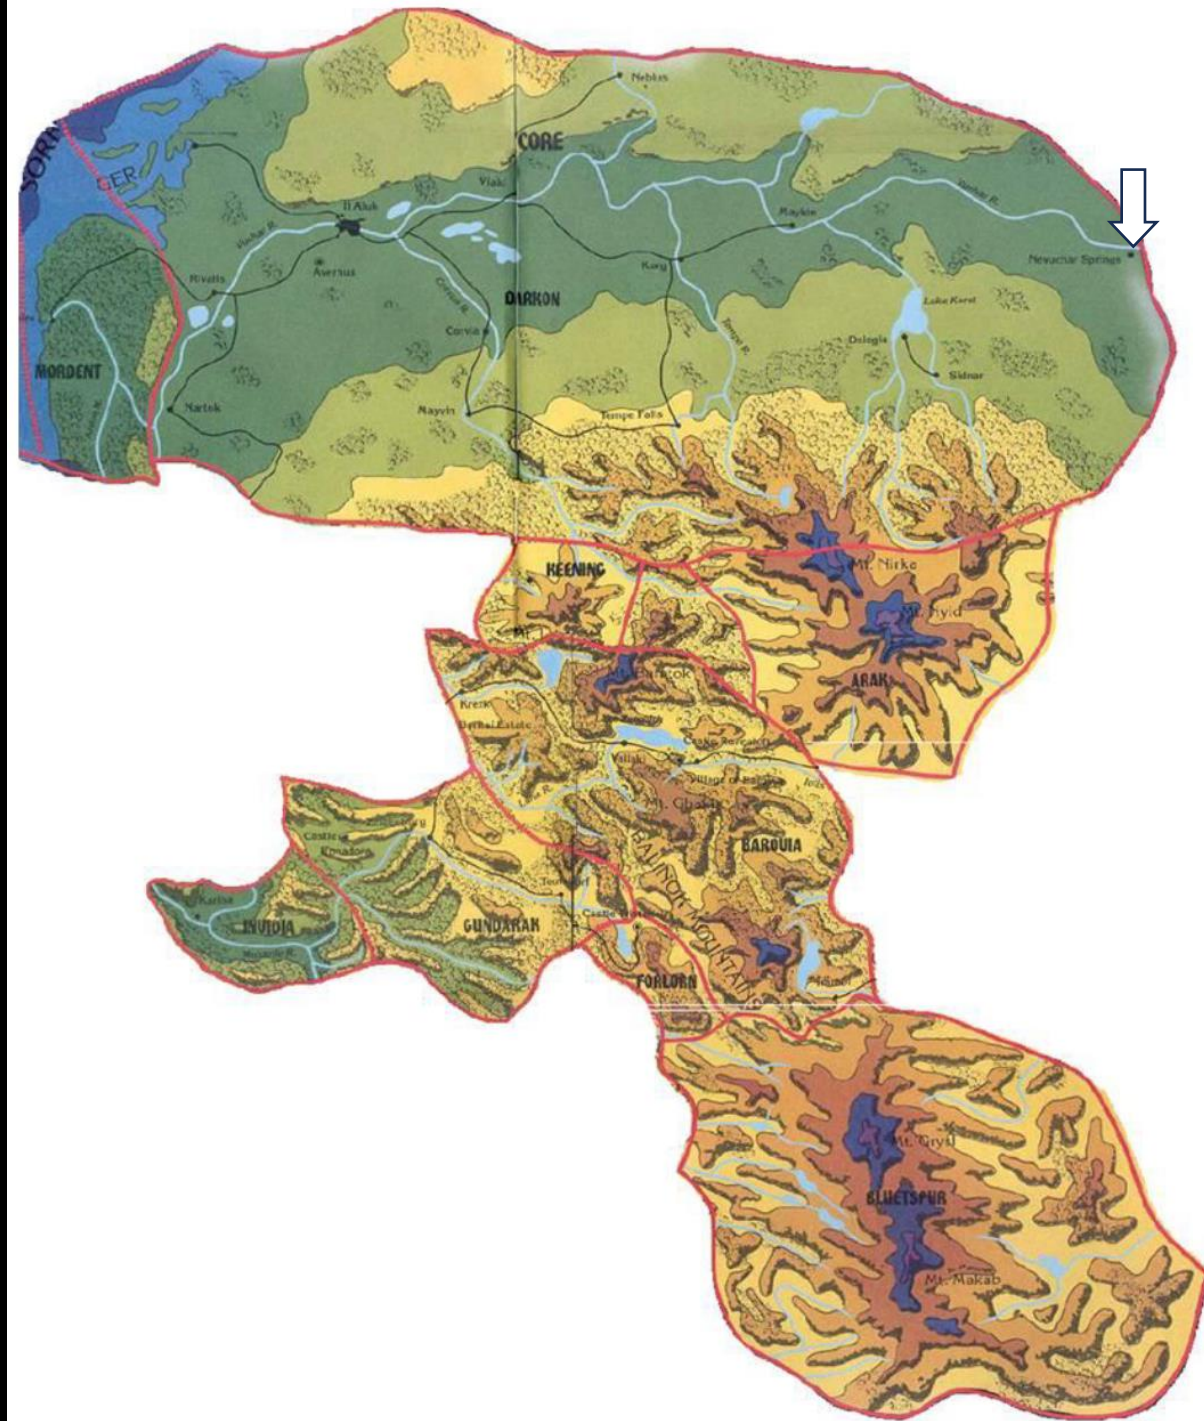

Ulrik von Kharkov becomes a vampire, having originally come from Cormyr. He is a slave to a Kargat master. [DL pg.. 54]

607 BC

608 BC

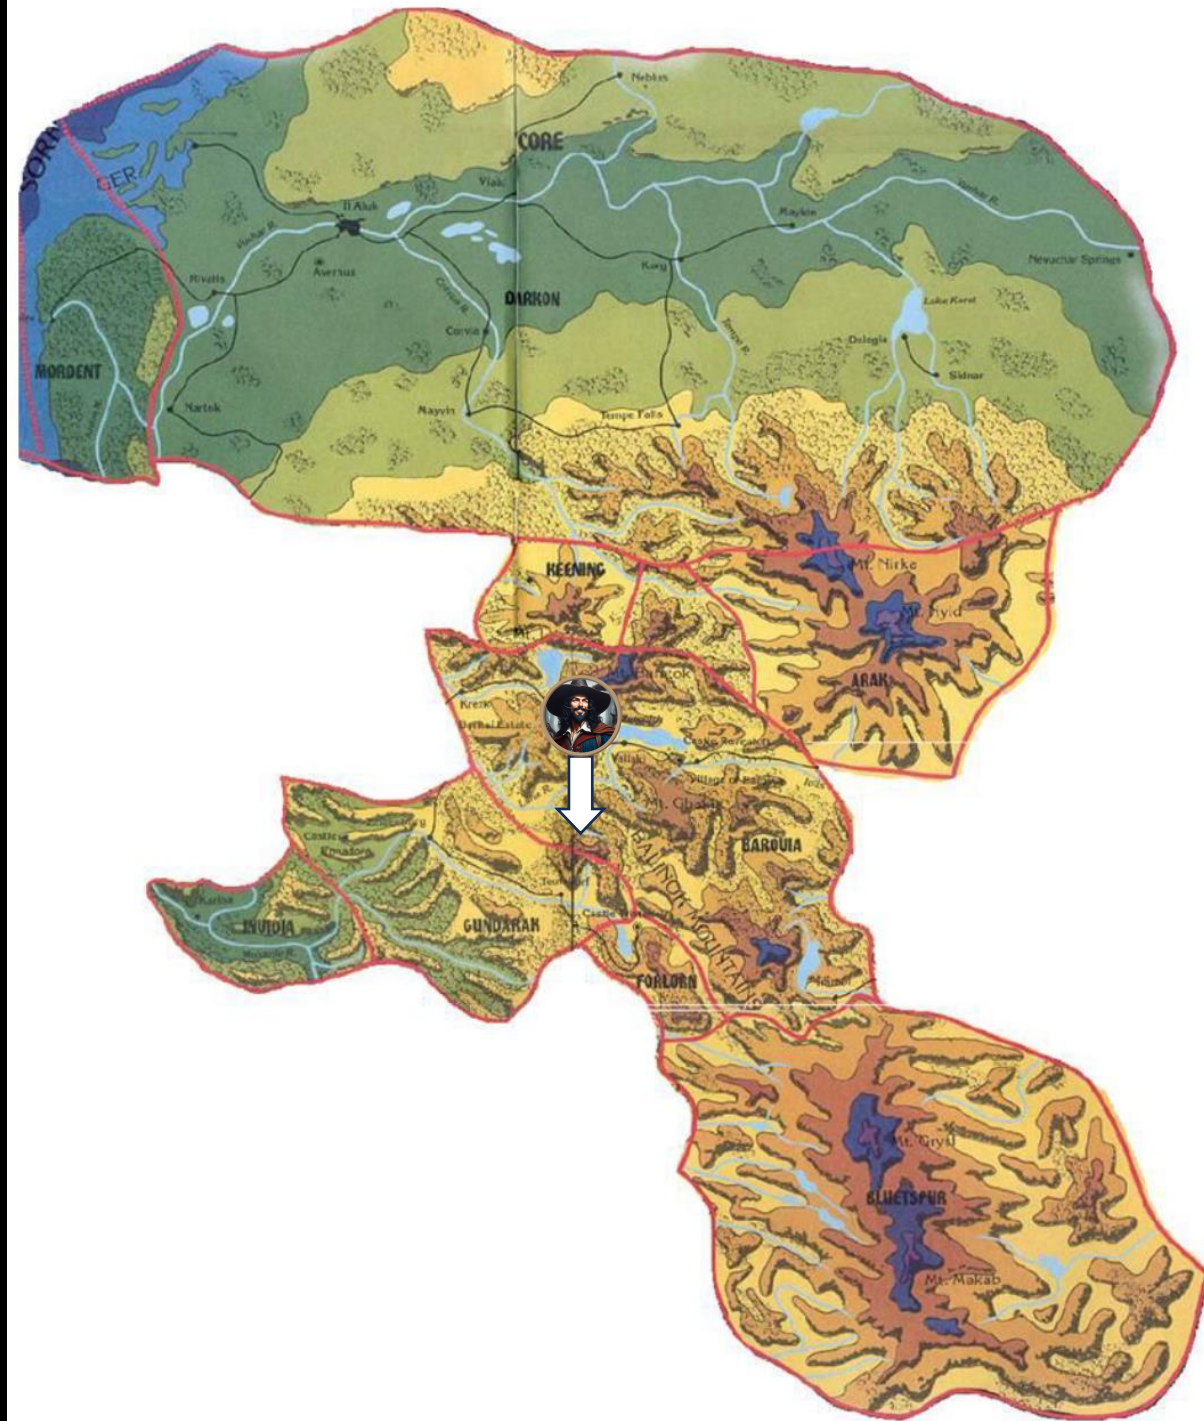

Gundar and Medraut (who is now trapped in a stunted child's body) allow the portal to close. [KotBR pg. 219: the portal remained open for "more than a decade."]

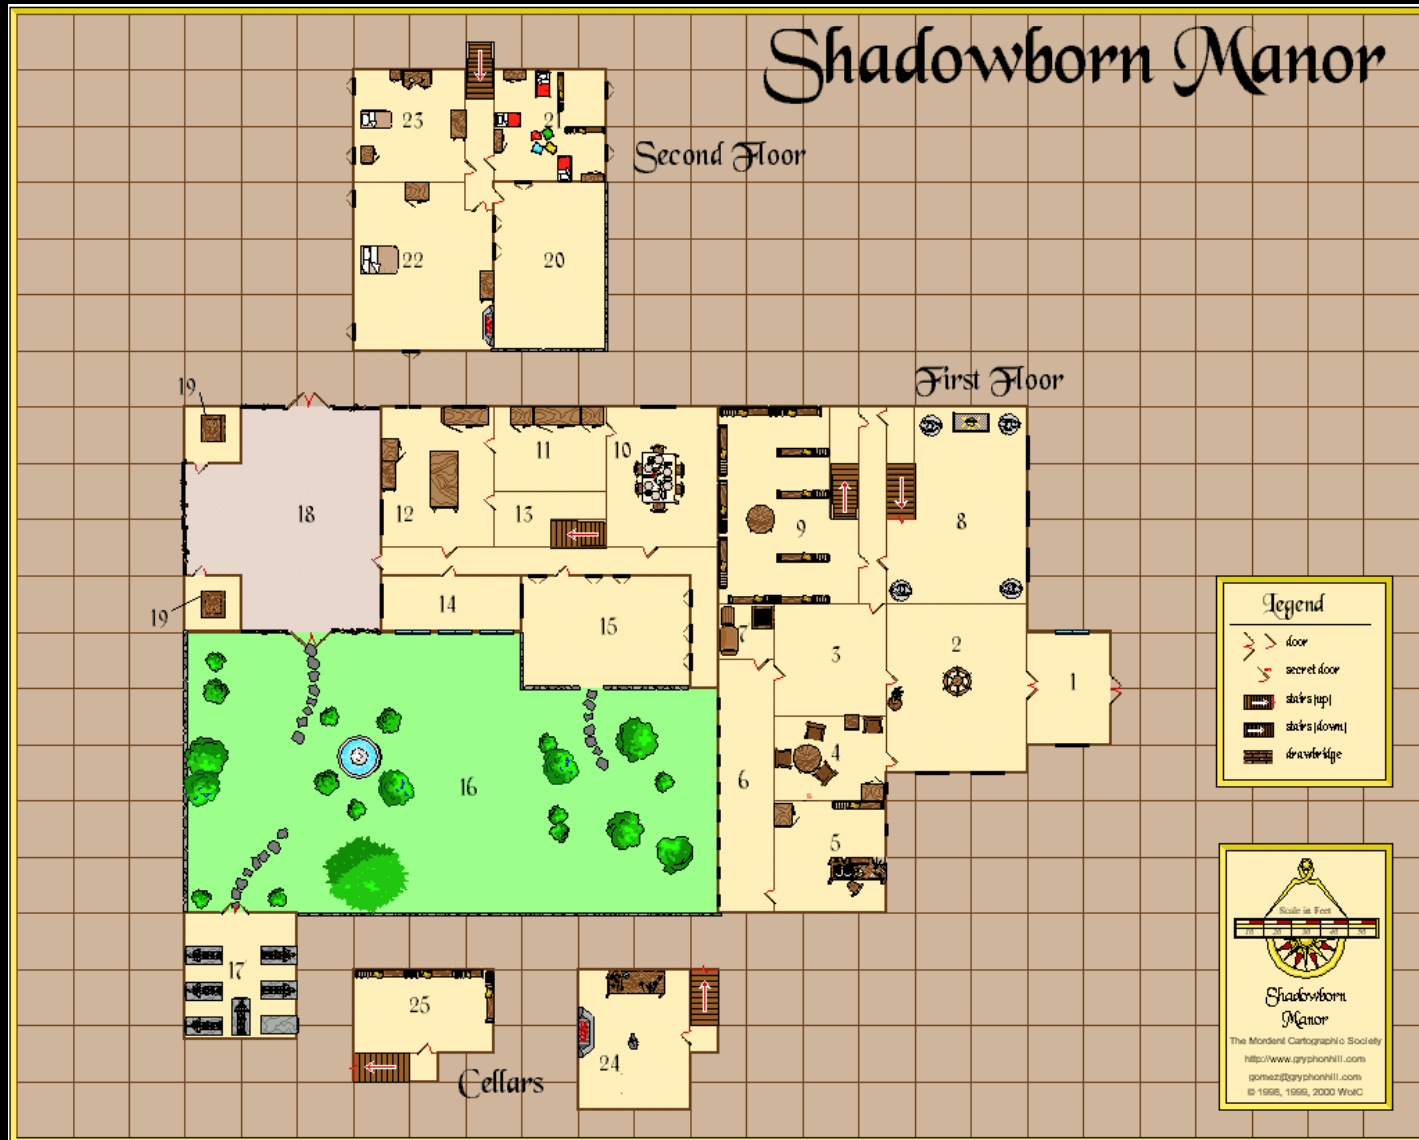

610 BC

Harkon Lukas enters Ravenloft in Barovia. (1229 DR:
Year of the Carrion Crow) [DoD pg.. 16]

611 BC

Ebonbane has his three minions secret him to Forenoon Abbey in the Great Kingdom in search of the traitorous Lysander, and they slaughter the monks there. The fiend's next stop is Shadowborn Manor. Ebonbane slays Kateri Shadowborn, and the domain of Shadowborn Manor is formed. Although the domain at first consists solely of the manor and its grounds, it immediately begins growing in size. [S pg.. 24, 27, 77-8, 129. BotSB indicates this occurred @ 316]

612 BC

Mystery murders occur again in Paridon; the pattern is noticed. [Extrapolated from the date for HotK in DoD, pg.. 17]

613 BC

Harkon Lukas flees Barovia; his evil is embraced and Kartakass appears. Dargacht Keep burns and topples; Lukas is “mildly responsible.” (1232 DR: Year of the Weeping Wives) [DoD pg.. 16. Lukas admits to his deed concerning Dargacht Keep on HoM pg.. 240 ]

615 BC

1. Elena Faith-Hold emerges from the Mists in the Core. She continues her crusade, wandering the wilds of Ravenloft. After slaughtering her 10th village, the Mists pluck her up again. The island domain of Nidala is formed, and Elena ceases to age. [S; IoT pg.. 6-9: All dates referring to Elena are speculative, based on her being a contemporary of Kateri, and her being in her “late forties.”]

2. Hyskosa, the infamous Vistana seer, is born. [ See “657: Hyskosa records his Dire Prophecy” for explanation as to why I date this here.]

617 BC

1. The Great Fire of 617 BC devastates Aluk Septentrion. Under Baron Vestmar's supervision, the town is rebuilt. [Gazetteer II p.63]
2. Lazarus Ikonnas and 4 other arcane spellcasters found the Fraternity of Shadows [USS 2002 p. 8]

630 BC

1. Sea of Sorrows Forms around Pieter van Riese and the Relentless
2. The Scottmatters all vanish from a family gathering, victims of a fey that called itself Lord Sithington Gray. [Gazetteer III p.52] Placed in this year by me, to show the accelerated demise of Mordent's nobles.

631 BC

The last of the Holsworth Family vanishes into the Sea of Sorrows. [Gazetteer III p. 52 places this in 542, but I wanted it to occur in the demiplane. Also, one cannot vanish into the Sea of Sorrows before it is a domain, so it has to be after 630 (where I placed the Hallows demise) and I presume they had been vanishing into one sea or another since 579.]

Liza Ramsay falls from the cliffs of the Isle. Dr. Ramsay, her father, forges a pact with the Dark Powers. He murders his wife Helen Ramsay and his two sons, Gregory Ramsay and Blake Ramsay, Jr. and uses their body parts to make Liza into a dread flesh golem. He succeeds, but her eyes are tainted and deformed. Dr. Ramsay begins killing visitors to the Isle and harvesting their eyes. [the House on the Edge of Midnight, Dungeon Magazine # 76, p. 10, 12; on p. 12, the fall of Liza occurred 6 years after their arrival on the Isle.] Where was this island and how did Ramsay get his family there when it was not yet a domain? 1. Eowin Timothy (And Sean and Ester, for that matter) born in Mordent to Cain and Elizabeth Timothy, both werewolves. [RoT Bloodlines: note the error on that page, however.]

Natural werewolves likely have longer lifespans than humans, as all three were around during I-10—and according to RoT bloodlines Cain and Elizabeth both died in 579, and they are siring children nine decades later. Even in a fantasy game it is hard to be born to dead parents. It probably makes more sense for this litter to be born a century earlier in 560, with then 19-year-old Sean following his parents to their doom in the service of the Creature, and Eowin and Ester living their long life and keeping a lower profile while they go on to create two more Darklords. Eowin is still around in 75 years when RoT is printed—not impossible even with a human lifespan, and could lead to a surprise when the old man transforms!

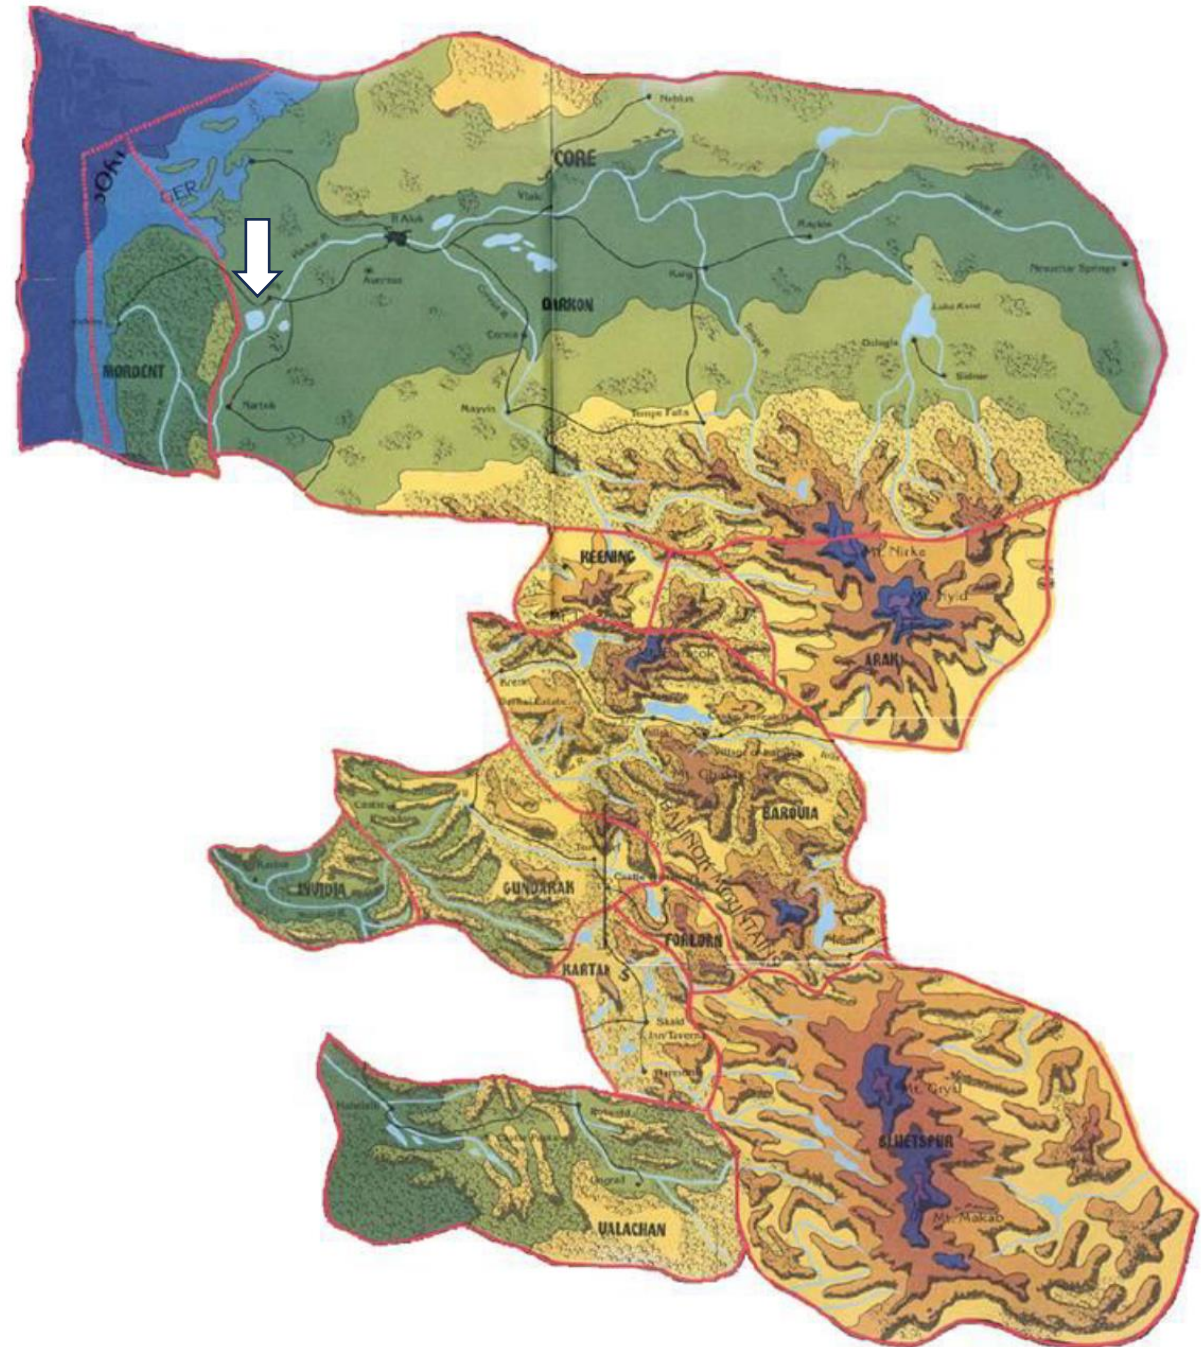

2. The “Old Baron” of Nartok has two children in one night; one to his wife, one to his mistress. His true heir, Worren (“Wort”) is deformed; the bastard (Caidan) is well formed. The Old Baron switches the children and kills both women to protect his secret. The Old Baron keeps this secret for the rest of his life, revealing it only to Caidan years later on his deathbed. [DoD pg.. 17; TNL Book 3, pg.. 33] Talgaard Bolshnik is already in the clinic by this point, as listed when his younger brother Othmar refuses to give up the rulership of Nova Vaasa. The entire plot is doomed from the start, but it does leave its mark: the creation of vampiric illithids. The Bluetspur conspirators also manage to steal the plans for The Apparatus and one of its Rods from an monastic order holding them, the Brotherhood of Contemplative Power (possibly an order of the Guardians). After the God-brain puts an end to all the games, Lyssa flees to Gundarak. With his employer dead, the bounty hunter Bonespur leaves Bluetspur as well. He turns his attention towards solving this new problem. (Adam’s Wrath). (Winter ‘71) [DoD pg.. 16 places this event in 583, but that leads to continuity errors. (See the entries for M.) I have simply placed this event here at my own choosing, where I feel it is the most natural fit.]

Yet when defeat seems imminent for the Invidians, the Barovians stop with the conquest of Gundarak's cities. [Gaz IV p. 39]
